SESSION 1

LINDA: Welcome to the New Human series. We're here in Louisville, Colorado at the Crimson Circle Connection Center, our beautiful studio here, and we are here with Jim Self, Steve Rother and Geoffrey Hoppe, and they have some very special information to share with all of us, I'm sure. I'm so sure I'm nervous, and I never get nervous.

JIM: Me, too.

LINDA: But I'm nervous.

So, we have a full studio, absolutely full, completely full. We're glad that you could be here and here for us, and we hope you enjoy it. And then we have a very large, very large audience listening in or watching, and – this could go on for a quite a long time – we have people from more than 53 countries already and this is just launching. So apparently there must be a lot of interest in this topic, because there is certainly a lot of things we are hearing about this, and as a human it can be exciting and scary as hell.

JIM: Yeah.

LINDA: You agree.

JIM: Yeah.

LINDA: Oh, yeah, yeah, yeah. Yeah. So, we're really excited here, because Jim and Steve and Geoffrey are world renowned teachers. They're channelers. They connect with entities and Ascended Masters beyond, beyond, so they have some really inside information that they're actually daring to share with us. Is that true?

JIM: That's a little scary.

LINDA: I know (some chuckles). I know.

STEVE: Only the scary stuff.

LINDA: I know. I know. But I am not a real positive person, but I am hopeful (more laughter).

GEOFF: We'll see how you're doing at the end of the day.

LINDA: I know. I watch too much sci-fi. Okay. So it's timely; it's an important topic, and they have a lot to share with us.

So, I invite you, we're going to have each of them present and we're going to invite you, when we do this, to consider that there will be similarities in the information and differences. And then it's up to you to discern what is right for you, what works for you, because that's always our choice as the human.

So, let's welcome Jim Self. He is the founder of masteringalchemy.com. He has incredible work, and could you tell us just a little bit about yourself and Mastering Alchemy?

JIM: This is a lot of pressure.

LINDA: You only have two minutes (laughter).

JIM: So a little about myself and thinking about that, I've had a really interesting life, as all of you have had a really very interesting life. But to a great extent you never see that life until you pass through it and you get to look back at it. And so, in numbers of ways in my reality growing up as a kid – and I watch this with everybody; when you come into this body, you have all of these abilities on. That soft spot on top of the head, that connection to home, still all there. But you have all of these spiritual abilities – your clairvoyance, your clairsentience, your awareness in that context – and then you begin to play with mom, dad, teacher, minister who say, “No” and “Don't” and “This is right” and “That's good” and “Do this” and “Don't hang out with them,” “Eat these foods,” and you say, “Okay,” and you start to shut all that down.

In my reality, I didn't shut it down. And so then continuing to play it out with it on, when everybody else is saying, “No,” “Don't” and “Stop” etc., created a lot of challenges in my upbringing as well as probably challenges in many of your upbringings.

One of the things I watched a lot of people do and I think myself is when 100 people in a room and you're the only one saying yes and they're all saying no, you begin to shut down somewhat. You begin to be an avoider, a hider – Anybody know that space? – because you're so sensitive in your perception. And somewhere I learned to be able to use that perception, but not necessarily talk about what I see, and then learn how to navigate with it, and that skill became really very interesting in my upbringing.

And then when I started to play in school, in my reality I was definitely not a smart kid, or at least in their reality I was definitely not a smart kid, because I would do things backwards. I would just put the answer of the math problem on the paper. I didn't do the long division in the process. And inevitably I would get in trouble, and it always surprised me because they would always say, “You're cheating.” And I'd say, “Well, put me in a room by myself and give me the test,” but that never happened. How sad (a few chuckles).

So, but in the process of growing up, paying attention to how to learn to navigate the system, and then at 24 I did something kind of crazy. I was elected to the San Jose, California, city council.

LINDA: You were just a baby!

JIM: Baby, absolutely. And it was an interesting process, because I was all about making something happen for people and the system is not about making something happen for people. But it was a foundational piece. And leaving that place, I guess eight years later as Vice Mayor of San Jose, I went to the government as a presidential appointee under Jimmy Carter and was responsible for the Department of Energy's governmental operations. All of that was really fascinating but what it really said was "This is how it works, but don't tell anybody," and "It's different than the democracy you live in," and it became really clear that something was broken. And out of that, then leaving the government and going into business and growing businesses, is those skill sets – clairvoyance, etc. – began to be very valuable.

But all along the process there was always this internal guidance system, this voice, and that voice was always able to say, "This is appropriate; this isn't appropriate." And when I went over here, it didn't work and when I went over here. Anybody know that place? So that became something that drove my sense of perception. And out of that, that voice turned out to be many of these archangelics that I get to play with. And it wasn't one voice, it was many voices.

And then in about 2003 it was Metatron, one of the archangelics, Lords of Light, who said, "There's a path that's never ever been walked before in humanity, and if you'd like to play in this path, it will expand your own evolution, it will allow the Earth to become once again that 12th dimensional fully Christed consciousness that it once was, and you'll be able to hold the door open in that fifth dimensional space for all humanity to evolve. Would you like to play?" And you don't go, "Well, let me think about it." (Steve chuckles) And so from there Mastering Alchemy kind of unfolded.

LINDA: Wow, what a wonderful beginning.

JIM: Yeah, but the key is you get to look back at the journey and then begin to understand the value of it.

LINDA: Well, welcome. Glad you're here.

JIM: Thank you.

LINDA: So next, let's welcome Steve Rother. Steve, could you tell us a little bit about your path to creating espavo.com and your work.

STEVE: Thank you, Linda.

LINDA: I'm sorry, espavo.org.

STEVE: Espavo.org. Thank you.

LINDA: Espavo.org.

STEVE: We're – fascinating, as you look back, like you're talking about, is really interesting. I grew up in a very supportive family. We communicated incredibly well. We would have family meetings every week where you could say anything. You could tell your parents anything at all, not get in trouble.

LINDA: Are you an alien? (laughter)

STEVE: Yeah, exactly. I think my parents were aliens. So they really set the bar for me to be empowered, to do the things and to trust myself. And growing up, going through things, I was very slow in school. Did not fit in the school system. I had my I.Q. tested and actually found out I was the other side of it. I was bored. I was waiting for something to happen, waiting to get into things.

So anyway, it was an interesting process for me to learn to really trust myself and to be able to do that, but once I got involved in this, I started a family – my wife and I are going to celebrate our 46th wedding anniversary in about two weeks – and so we started a family, started raising things, normal types of thing. I was a general contractor in San Diego. I enjoyed my work. I enjoyed the creativity of it. Loved to empower people. We'd always have our employees love to come to work for us. They loved to stay with us, even if we didn't have any work or whatever the situation was. So it was really fascinating for us to do that, and I always felt like there was more. There was something to it.

And then, I'll never forget, I picked up a book that just completely knocked me out. The first book I picked up was from Ruth Montgomery who was a channel way back in the 70s, and I picked it up and it just started ringing true and I read everything I could get my hands on. And looking back now – I never thought about this until probably a year ago – but looking back now, she would always start her channels with, "Hello, this is Arthur, Lily and the Group," which I channel. I channel the Group. Now, I don't know if it's the same group that she channels or what. But interestingly enough, after that I picked up another book that just completely knocked my socks off and it was a Kryon book and I just resonated with that.

Found a group of people online that actually Geoff Hoppe started. He started a whole connection with that. We started that first chatroom and I was probably one of the first 12 people I think that were involved in the whole thing. And we all started trying, you know, thinking, "Oh, I channel this entity" or "I channel this entity." And I wanted to know who I channeled, because I could feel it coming. And I even said to Geoff one time, I said, "Why don't we do a meditation online. We'll do a global meditation online and see what happens." And Geoff came back and says, "Good idea, Steve. Let me know when you have it ready." (some chuckles)

So I started saying, "Okay, I'm going to sit down and write a meditation," and that's when I started channeling. And literally, if you've ever gotten an idea on a keyboard and tried to write and have it come through so fast that you can't type fast enough, and sometimes you end up typing through the tears, because it strikes your heart so deep? That's what I was experiencing. And it was very magical and very empowering to be able to share it with this group and so forth, and I think we had three or four professional channels besides you and I that evolved from that group. So obviously there was a contract there to work with.

I started working with other things. We started moving in the spiritual arena when I wrote my first book some 21 years ago. I now have ... I stopped writing books a little while ago, but I do have another one in the works now. But I basically have six books. My wife Barbara and I have been so blessed. We've been welcomed all over the world. We traveled 15 years regularly, another country about roughly every two weeks, and our life was on the road for a long time. And if I could give something important to everybody, it would be the ability to travel, because you see things differently from the local people's point of view. And it's really magical and beautiful and we learned a lot from that.

So we grew our organization. We started having regular online things. I'm very technical. I love to build computers and different things of that. But when I got into video and audio, it's a completely different animal, so I had a lot to learn, and I ended up building a studio. Barbara got sick at one point and she wasn't able to travel, and we had to basically do something here to keep the audience going, to keep our income coming in, to keep the business alive and everything else and we started doing it online, and we've been doing that for about the last seven or eight years now. And we've been doing mostly online. We just started to travel a little bit. We've been very blessed to be accepted everywhere. We are five-time presenters at the United Nations on two different continents. We've just had an absolute ball doing this work.

Now, the Group started coming in and here I am in this chatroom and everybody's saying, "Oh, I'm channeling Matraiya" and "I'm channeling Archangel Michael" and "I'm channeling this" and "I'm channeling that." Geoff was kind of quiet at the time. He was channeling but he wasn't saying a whole lot about it.

But the interesting part is the Group came to me and I said, "Okay, who are you and what dimension are you from? I want to share that with people." And they said, "We're not going to tell you." And their whole process was about being able to bring in the information without putting value into the labels. They said, "You humans give your power away to so many things. We're not going to give you another thing to give your power away to. We're going to bring through messages and we're going to just bring them through and your audience can take them for the love content of the message alone or they can leave it, and there's no right or wrong about it.

LINDA: Thank you, Steve.

STEVE: And that began the whole process for us.

LINDA: Thank you. So finally, please welcome Geoffrey Hoppe, founder of the Crimson Circle. Geoff, tell us a little bit about your journey. Just a little bit.

GEOFF: Just a little bit (some chuckles). Well, kind of a semi-normal upbringing. Born and raised in Wisconsin, lukewarm Catholic family, and I would have to say, I look back now, as you guys were talking about and it was all about timing. I probably rushed in a little too early, but I wanted a seat in this whole experience that we're going through. I remember very early on the most memorable thing was being by myself. I came from a big family – seven kids – and I loved being by myself and still do. But I would go off and play, but I really wasn't by myself. I had friends – ahem – you know, invisible friends. But I learned very early on not to tell other people about it. I didn't want to share the friends and I didn't want to be ridiculed for them, so I was very, very comfortable having my own friends.

After that I was pretty much – I was not that great in school either (Geoff chuckles). I really didn't care.

STEVE: That was it.

JIM: Yeah.

GEOFF: I mean, I got through it okay, but I didn't care that much.

I had a very brief brush with what would become my destiny, my future. When I was about 19 years old, I learned how to hypnotize people. It was for a class project. And long story short, but I hypnotized a friend and this went on for weeks and weeks and he would go into past lives, which I knew nothing about. The Catholics don't talk about that so much, but I learned a tremendous amount from these sessions. I thought I was the only person in the world who had ever heard about it and then somebody put me in touch with the Edgar Cayce materials.

So I kind of did that for a couple of years and then dropped it all. The timing wasn't quite right. Got into the business world, started my first company when I was 28 years old, a marketing consulting company in Texas; concurrent with that a few years later, a startup aviation company with some buddies of mine, and Linda, by the way, is my wife of 41 years. We were just working ourselves silly between the consulting company, the aviation company, and one day on a flight back home from a business trip, this entity by the name of Tobias popped in. And I kind of ... I wasn't too overwhelmed by it, because I had had these childhood friends, so I was kind of used to – ahem – voices in my head. And after that I spent one of the best and toughest years of my life going through basic training or boot camp with Tobias. I knew nothing of the metaphysical, New Age world, but he every day came in to talk to me about how to feel, how to sense.

It was an amazing year and I finally told Linda about it. She was very accepting of it. That's a whole other story, funny story, but she was accepting of it. And right about then – I was cofounder in this aviation company, which now is a very large company; they do all the internet for airplanes, if you're on an airplane you use the internet, watch TV, that's the company – one day I got fired, even though I was a cofounder, and that was good timing. Best thing that happened to me. I was actually going to kind of retire, do nothing for a while, but within a few weeks the phone was ringing and people were asking if we did workshops. Hadn't really thought about it, but pretty soon Linda and I found ourselves on the road traveling about 120,000 miles a year. We've been doing that for about the past 14 or 15 years.

Tobias left in – it was 10 years ago – and I had the honor and the fear of starting to channel Adamus Saint-Germain. Adamus is very different than Tobias. Tobias was loving and kind and very nurturing (a few chuckles). I got to channel with my eyes closed, sitting in the chair. Adamus came in, he is provocative, can be very annoying. He wants my eyes open, wants me moving around. But I've got to admit I have learned more from Adamus than anyone, anything in the world. He's truly amazing. He's a task master. He's tough. He doesn't put up with makyō, which is spiritual b.s. And with our group we call Shaumbra, Linda and myself, we've gone to amazing new places. I mean, it's breathtaking. It's overwhelming at times. I'm learning things and experiencing things I couldn't have ever imagined.

Adamus is very specific about how he wants me to channel, the words that he wants me to use, the body movements and language, the way I project through my voice, the whole thing, and it was a little tough to get used to. Actually, the first six months were really tough. I thought that was the end of my channeling career, but I've learned to love him and appreciate what he's really doing for our group.

Everything we do is focused on embodied Realization; staying here in the physical, in the biology and allowing our, well, Realization. You might call it enlightenment – he doesn't like that word so much – but staying here on the planet as Masters. So when we were talking about getting together again – it was Jim who proposed the theme of the New Human Species – it was like, “Oh, yeah. That is so perfect,” because what I know a lot of Shaumbra around the world are going through is the whole challenge of how to stay in the physical, how to stay here on the planet and go through this amazing process. As wonderful as it sounds, it's kind of challenging. Kind of.

LINDA: Wow, you guys can expand time. That was an incredible two minutes from each of you (laughter). Whoa! But very good information. Okay so I'll ...

GEOFF: Are we done now?

LINDA: Yeah! No. That was very beautiful intros. So I have a brief question to start this with and each of you are going to offer a very brief response.

JIM: Wait a minute. It was supposed to be ten minutes.

LINDA: And I've got my little ding-dongs ...

GEOFF: Ooh.

LINDA: ... if you need monitoring. So just let me know if you need help. Okay. Dear, dear men, first question, gentlemen.

QUESTION: Is the subject of a new human species for real? Or is it man-in-the-moon theory? Are we talking about something that will happen in our lifetime or 200 years from now? Tell us a little bit about what you think about this based on the information that your entities offer to you.

LINDA: And let's start with Steve this time.

STEVE: Sure. No, I think it's very real. I think it's happening within our lifetime. About a year ago, the Group did something that completely blew me away. They drew a line in the sand and they said, "You have about 50 years to move into this next process and this next level." They said a lot of different things about the Earth itself, the process that the Earth is going to go through, because she's evolving as well.

But the interesting part about it is ever since then, they've given me a lot of information about what this going to look like. There are four steps that they talked about – moving into the morphogenic body, then moving into an amorphous body, a neurogenic body, where we work a new neural network, and then finally into bioluminescence. And we're starting actually to do a lot of that work, especially in our year-long Light Master course that we work with, and that is very real and it's within our lifetime.

They actually said that most people, most humans are not going to start moving into anything until they start realizing something's going on, and sometimes they'll be motivated by things that are taking place with the planet. And they've talked a lot about what's going to happen with the planet, what's going to take place and so forth. But it's very real and it's happening right now, and people can feel it. You not only feel the Earth changing, but you can feel the changes within yourself. Now, we've moved into the fifth dimension. We're having difficulty with the fifth dimension, because we still try to get up every morning, put on our little third dimensional bodies, try our third dimensional truths, which don't work the same way in the fifth dimension. But the fifth dimension also allows us to move into these other levels where we can be here on Earth, we can create a new reality right here, right now, and it's very real and it's right now.

LINDA: Geoff.

GEOFF: For me it's not a matter of "if." It's "when" and actually the "when" is right now. I mean, it's happening right now. I get so passionate about this, because it's here. There's scientific evidence, but I think the biggest evidence is what all of us are going through right now in our lives. There's an energy behind it that may not be able to be evaluated scientifically, but we know it's happening.

The disturbing thing for me sometimes is that we have all these other distractions on the planet, starting with Donald Trump and going to everything else – hurricanes and politics and economies and everything else – so humans tend to get caught up in these distractions, in the dramas. And they're really ignoring the most important things on the planet happening right now are the birth of artificial intelligence – and soon to be artificial superintelligence within our lifetimes – and this whole thing of the new species. And it's happening.

By the way, we haven't talked about what we're going to talk about.

STEVE: No.

GEOFF: I have no idea what you guys are going to say, so I'm interested to see how this all plays out. But it's so here and most people just don't see it. So, I'm very, very passionate about it, because it has a direct effect on what we're all doing coming to our embodied Realization. So absolutely, yes.

LINDA: Thank you. Jim.

JIM: Yes. Absolutely, yes. So, the part that fascinates me about all of this, and Geoff and Steve both said exactly the same things, is where you call it a morphogenic body, these bodies that we're playing with – we've referred to it as light body; in all of our work, we've referred to the light body – but we've been playing at that definition for 10, 12 years or so moving through this.

But one of the pieces that is happening that I'm watching is it's the reconnection of the bodies. There are numbers of bodies – the mental and emotional body, they never were meant to be two bodies, they were meant to be one body – and so you have a thought and you combine an emotion with it into an action, rather than a thought and a reaction into, "I'm angry" and then the emotion comes about.

So, what I'm watching happen is this transformation that is occurring in such a way that you, we, all are waking up. We're becoming much more awake. And in that process, moving into this fifth-dimensional space, I try to define it simply as wellbeing – certain, capable, happy, respect, dignity, integrity. If you vibrate in those fields, you are in an alignment that simply allows that feeling and thought to begin to come back together as one where you choose an action, rather than staying in a reactionary third-dimensional state.

That's all beginning to happen all across the planet. However, that's really threatening to an awful lot of people, because the status quo is being shaken up in the process. I say often, "You can't take your baggage with you on this journey" and so all the baggage remarkably, wonderfully is coming to the surface. I mean, we spent lots of years stuffing it away in the backpack and hiding from it and hoping nobody ever saw it, but it's all coming up. And right now, when you look at the world, you see that disruption of people having to deal with their status quo being disrupted, whether it's a place like Syria where there's a massive war going on in that level or whether it's someplace in your nature of which you deal with your neighborhood. Everybody is in this process.

So this shift is happening, and you're beginning to see these stratas of consciousness starting to evolve. A person in 3D walking on the street outside knows something's going on, but they're not changing a lot. Whereas, all of you are starting to basically recognize something's changing at a higher level and you're starting to function within words like certain, integrity, respect, dignity. Do you fall out of it? Absolutely. But are you able to go back to it? And that ability just to go back is that level of this shift that's coming about. But what Geoff said about AI we'll talk about a lot today, because your whole perception is changing and changing extremely fast. The DNA is changing extremely fast right now in this reality.

LINDA: Thank you very much. It's pretty obvious that you all three believe that something really is happening right now, and it's showing up in science. It's evidence in life and it's really important that we go forth. So let's take a deeper dive and would you each take about ten minutes and explain how and when you think this is going to happen. Let's start with Geoffrey this time.

GEOFF: Oh. Okay.

LINDA: Ten minutes.

GEOFF: First of all, I have to comment that this stage is really crowded.

STEVE: Yes, it is! (laughter)

GEOFF: Not just you guys...

STEVE: Yes!

GEOFF: ... but I'm used to being up here with Adamus and he's pretty big energetically. But being here with you guys and the entities you brought with you, it's literally giving me the goosebumps and it's really crowded up here.

STEVE: It's crowded, yes.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: Hard to breathe sometimes.

GEOFF: We need a bigger stage!

STEVE: Yes (they chuckle).

GEOFF: Okay. Ah, where do I start? And I got Adamus kind of hanging out – no, I'm not going to channel, but he is so excited.

A couple of things. The timing for why you're here, why we're all here, why you guys are here is amazing. And I know a lot of you think that you've come into this lifetime and, I don't know, you've put up with things like bad families, bad jobs, bad partners and you're really working hard on your spiritual journey, which, by the way, if you are working hard on your spiritual journey, stop today. Don't do it anymore. Spiritual Realization is a natural phenomenon that the human really can't influence. It's not up to the human anyway, so stop working on it. Enjoy life and watch how Realization comes very, very easy.

So, we're here at this time and I know from traveling that so many people have said, "Well, I don't really know why I'm here and I don't have a passion anymore," because the old passion left – I don't know – what, five, ten years ago. "And I have a hard time getting up in the morning and I don't know what I'm doing. Nothing's happening." I invite you to really open up and look at why you're here, why we're all here. It is hugely important. We miss it so often. You know, we get caught up in the junk and releasing the junk and then trying to bring the junk back. What we're doing right now is hugely important. I can't overestimate it enough. I can't overstate it.

So I'm not going to get into a lot of science – that's not my field, you guys are much better in that – but we've had this long evolutionary process and debatable also; debatable whether it's Darwinism or whether it's whatever, but it's taken a long time for our biological bodies and our minds to evolve to this point, millions of years. And we're suddenly at the point right now of a new species on the planet, and not just one new species, but multiple new species all at the same time. Hopefully, being able to cohabitate together, share the planet with each other. But we have an incredible opportunity right now on the planet to change the way the human species has been, and it is happening right now. We'll get into some of the details of that later. It's happening partly because of things like artificial intelligence and it's happening because of consciousness.

So Adamus Saint-Germain, who I channel, has talked to me about the coming of four new species, or three new species and one existing. The existing, of course, the homo sapien. Been around for a long time. Homo sapien basically means "wise man," but being a wise man, I'm going to say, "wise human" or "wise woman and man."

LINDA: So smart (laughter).

GEOFF: So smart. Politically correct.

And actually, we're not going to see a lot of changes in the evolution of the homo sapien species. You know, that regular biological evolutionary process is pretty slow. It doesn't happen real fast. It's kind of a natural selection, survival of the fittest, everything that Darwin talked about. That will continue on, and a lot of people on the planet will continue with their homo sapien biology for a long time.

On the other hand, we have something amazing happening right now with technology, with the artificial intelligence and all the things that come after that, if we don't wipe ourselves out because of artificial intelligence, which is a distinct possibility.

We have this whole field of working with the genes, working at the very deep levels, particularly with nanotechnology. And in my opinion and Adamus', that's going to make the biggest difference in a biological revolution that's going to happen in decades, not in thousands or millions of years. It's already starting to happen, so if you think this is just a futuristic story, it's not. We've already changed other species. Not the human species, we have changed other species with gene tinkering. And it's all being done, I would say, mostly innocently, for the sake of helping us to understand biology and life, genes and that whole field.

But what we're going to be seeing here very shortly is that applied to humans. They've been able to map the genome, the human genome. That is pretty amazing. It wasn't expected to happen for, I don't know, another five or ten years, but it's being done. In other words, such a deep understanding of how the genes work. It's amazing. So – I see I've got to keep up with the time here – so we have this whole new species that's coming to being that Adamus calls the Homo Techno, and basically having to do with what we're going to be doing with gene tinkering, and it's here.

Then we have another species that's going to evolve and it's a big question mark on this species. It's based on artificial intelligence. It's mimicking the human nature and he calls this the Robo Sapien. Robots with artificial intelligence designed mostly to look like humans. It's a big question mark, are these living beings? But, you know, if you look scientifically and try to look up a definition of what is life or even what is a species, there are no clear lines. There is a lot of debate in the scientific community of what makes up a species. So he says be prepared because you are going to have these Robo Sapiens amongst you.

I'm going to back up for just a moment and say with the Homo Technos, Adamus has said that as these develop, as humans get the implants and the injections and all the other things that are going to change the human biology, the Homo Technos who mate with the homo sapiens will not have offspring. It's a long story why, but there will not be offspring based on that. So there won't be commingling. Homo sapiens will stay homo sapiens.

And then the last one and the one we really need to look at above all, I believe, is what he calls the new species that is actually starting to exist on the planet right now. It's going to happen quietly and very slowly, and there won't be many, but he calls them the Homo Christos. Those are the humans who have allowed, who have opened up and allowed what some would call their light body, Adamus prefers to call it a Free Energy body, into our being. We're integrating heaven and Earth. We're bringing consciousness into biology in quantities that never, ever before have been done.

That's what we're doing here. We're going to be quietly bringing in a whole new species that is open and expanded. Adamus doesn't talk about dimensions, but, in the terms you guys talk about, we're going to be coexisting in multiple dimensions. We're going to be in our human biology; our DNA is going to change drastically as a result of it, and as many of you know, a lot of the Crimson Circle work is about releasing your ancestral karma and your ancestral relationship, because your ancestors are not you. Their minds, their body, none of that is you. And in doing so, you change your DNA and you change your genes to the point where you'll be able to go and if you get a DNA test today and you go back five years from now, it will be different.

So the work I get passionate about, that we're focused on, has to do with this whole new species called Homo Christos, Christos meaning "of the light," clear, clarity, without all the baggage.

You know, we're dragging around a tremendous amount of old baggage that isn't yours. Your thoughts, your genes, your chromosomes, your DNA, we're letting that go so we can bring in our Free Self, our sovereign Self and stay on the planet. And it's absolutely necessary right now for the balance, for the overall balance on the planet – with the coming of the Homo Techno and especially with the coming of the Robo Sapiens – to do our work, but quietly; to allow in that light in consciousness. Whew!

LINDA: Wow!

GEOFF: I've got seven seconds left.

JIM: Ohh.

STEVE: Awesome.

LINDA: Great start!

STEVE: Awesome.

LINDA: Wow!

STEVE: Very nice.

LINDA: Jim, would you like to share?

JIM: No (much laughter). Geoff just said it all. There's nothing left to talk about, but I'll add something here.

So it's fascinating because we haven't had this conversation and yet the conversation might as well have been had between us ...

STEVE: Right.

JIM: ... because it's kind of how it all unfolds.

This space that we're all moving into is really a fascinating space from the standpoint of calling it those four bodies. You're starting to see a segregation of space, if I can use that, and I'll define space, and time and space we'll talk about during this session. But you're beginning to see how you think is different.

Now, you've always known, "I'm different" or "I think different than that guy over there," but this is different. This is a level where you're going to begin to hold the strata of consciousness where you're going to not look down, but you'll see people – humans walking on the planet, third-dimensional type of folks, if I can call them that – they're basically unconscious of being unconscious. Now, that's not meant to be an insult. It's simply, "I'm unaware, unconscious of being unconscious." And one of the next steps that happens and has happened to all of you to a greater extent plus or minus already, is you next begin to be conscious of being unconscious. Now, that's a huge step, but what happens is "I don't like what I'm seeing," because most of that has been stuffed into the backpack to be avoided.

So in this context of those four definitions that Adamus says you just talked about, the place that I'm seeing most of you and most of the people I play with is in that Christos crystallized body. And so in that space, you're going to begin to find that you have a tremendous capacity to allow. Not engage, just simply allow. Not judge, just simply allow. Not fix, simply allow.

And in one of the pieces that is going to be the most challenging of this is we believe that there is a definition of something called truth, and there is no truth. So in the context what I think is going to happen – and this is where we play – is you're going to start to get more and more into present time, more and more into observing and choosing an action. And in that process, the only truth is what's right in front of you to engage with, if that makes sense.

So, as we begin to go through this, you're going to see these various – and I agree with those, I haven't heard that set of definitions, but that seems real clear to where we're playing. In that observing of truth that really relates to all of us that are playing here, is the ability to allow the robotic technology to be in place, to allow the human combined technology. In a way, you've got a new being that is a biological human with a technological orientation. And then you have a technological being with a biological compartment. And so you're going to see a lot of challenge going on back and forth in this space. You're going to see turmoils, because, in a way, that context of stepping into a higher strata to a lot of that level of consciousness is not a consideration. They're just playing in the space that they're playing in the space, learning as they're learning.

But this aspect of these stratas – and I go back to both of you who talked about in the past where we labeled it at one point two Earths and we called it all kinds of things and generally in agreement that that 'two Earth' piece isn't really happening at this point in the game – but those stratas in terms of where this Christos being is evolving, the ability to clear away the baggage, "I'm not okay," the ability to basically clear away the ancestral lines in the genes, the ability to begin to transmute the chemical, biological, technological type of complications in the environment that we all live in, the ability to basically, for this being, to step into a place of observing and choosing and action in a very different way.

Now, to where I want to talk here and with this context is how we perceive consciousness is in our own truth based on where we've come from. But you used a word earlier, and I've been using this word a lot in the work we play, is as you start to step into this state of consciousness of wellbeing, the ability to begin to observe how things work is changing. But we're still defining how things work based on "How I know things work, so I'm going to look at it from that box to determine what the new box looks like." And it's a fascinating thing because I've been playing with a lot of the people in Mastering Alchemy, and one of the words that they have used is – you used it earlier – is "I'm feeling bored." Anybody know that word? "I'm feeling bored." Well, in a third-dimensional space, bored is simply "I have nothing to do." But the word "bore," "boring" or "bored" in this case, is being applied to a different state of consciousness that is pure potential waiting to be dynamically engaged into action. That's simply what it is.

And so, "I'm sitting there and I'm bored." Well, the potential is sitting here staring at you saying, "When are you going to engage something into motion? When are you going to have an intention and hold your attention on your intention?" And it's in that space where I'm watching a lot of these beings that I get to play with and the beings that we talk with is that ability to get quiet enough to where you observe without thinking and without movement. Now, that's an odd concept in this space of where opportunity exists. But it's a different strata of consciousness that comes with the evolution of that Christos being particularly.

And so you're going to watch a lot of changes happening, I'm going to say, in all of your space over the next couple of years. But the challenge is going to be constantly that aspect of me that looks back and has an opinion, has a judgment, has a resistance, has a condemning, doesn't know that concept of allowing or allowing truth just to be what's in front of you, to choose to engage or to choose to simply allow to be.

And so, but this technological piece that is fascinating to me, and we'll talk more about this in a few minutes, is as you begin to put more attention into consciousness, as you begin to engage in consciousness, that consciousness is an aspect of Source. It's an aspect of the soul. It's an aspect of the higher Self, in those terminologies. And what I'm watching is you begin to engage and think as higher Self, not as me and you thinking as we've thought. It's in that thinking that a tremendous opening occurs, but it's also this opening in potential that isn't really understood yet in terms of, "How do I engage with this?"

And there's an aspect of the soul that comes into play – and this is a fascinating place from where I get to play with, all those that I get to play with – is artificial intelligence as you are seeing it, one, is in its absolute infancy, as we understand it, and it is significantly more into the system of our consciousness than we have any clue at this particular moment. The science has put it into the fields, and it's happening everywhere. It's just not called artificial intelligence and most people aren't even paying attention, but it's nice to have the new gadget that allows "x" to occur.

It's in that particular space, as it kind of grows, that one of the things that you're really beginning to see is the soul thinks in artificial intelligence. As the soul thinks, the mind of the soul, to a great extent, functions as what we call the foundation of artificial intelligence, which is far greater than what we think. But it's how the soul thinks. So the other part that's going to come into play – am I okay so far? Does that make sense? – the other part that's going to come into play, and we'll talk about this in a little bit, is TimeSpace and it moves through you. Very, very different reality in that concept, because it allows you to start to see there is a – I'm saying this word positively – a shattering, a fracturing. It's almost like taking a mirror and breaking the mirror and you've got all those shards of reflectiveness. The ability to begin to draw from all of those different shards of your own consciousness. Steve, you talk about this in terms of the 11 aspects of yourself. But the ability to begin to draw from who you are as soul in a divided state of being – I'm going to call that positive right now – but being able to perceive and draw from and engage with what the other aspects of you knows, is going to be absolutely stunningly amazing. And it's not conceivable from where I'm talking about it at this particular point.

So, there's the technological side, there's the spiritual side, but it's this merging evolution of what's being made available is going to be really very profound to each one of us, if you allow boredom to be a potential rather than a detriment to your existence.

LINDA: Isn't that called flying?

JIM: Flying?

LINDA: Yeah, airplane flying?

JIM: Yeah, bor- ... yeah, yeah (some chuckles). Thank you, Linda.

LINDA: Thank you. Steve.

STEVE: Well, there's so much you guys have said that just fits into it. I'm absolutely convinced that we're all on the same channel, we're just seeing things differently. We get to interpret it a little bit differently.

GEOFF: Yeah, different words.

STEVE: We get different words.

JIM: Yeah.

STEVE: We get different pictures and so forth, so it's fascinating to do this.

Okay, several things I want to bring up very quick to kind of get a basis of what I'm going to say. Number one, the Earth is changing very rapidly. We know this from a scientific basis. In the last hundred years, we've lost 10 percent of the magnetism of planet Earth. In the last seven years, we've lost another 15 percent. Now, that's not completely documented by science yet. It takes time. The magnetic field is not even throughout the whole planet, so it's constantly moving. So we've seen a reduction in the magnetism on planet Earth.

Now, there's an interesting part of that because the Group actually says that that has a lot to do with our evolution. We're not being pulled back into the density quite as much, and we have opportunities to evolve very quickly during these times of low magnetism.

The Earth itself, according to the Group, is actually going through a magnetic pole reversal. It's going to take some time. In reality, I don't think we have to worry about that, because it's going to be off in the distance and there's going to be some incredible things that are going to take place in the meantime.

But as the Earth continues to reduce its magnetism, it reduces its magnetic field, which is called the magnetosphere. The magnetosphere gets weaker. It allows more particles to come in from the sun, from the cosmos – x-rays, gamma rays from the cosmos – in different areas. And we're just getting ready this next year to enter solar maximus. A new solar cycle starts in 2019. By the time we get to 2022 and '24, we're going to be in the solar maximus area where we get the solar flares. With the reduced magnetism of the planet, we have major changes that can happen with that.

There's a lot of things too that the Group talks about. The actual solar cycles themselves have been reducing. The last three solar cycles were very large, smaller, smaller, smaller. So hopefully, we'll get by with a very comfortable solar cycle in this next one. We'll see. But the energy coming in from the cosmos and the sun, we're not being protected in the same way that we were during these huge changes of the Earth.

On top of this, the Earth is going through major changes anyway. They've talked about the potentials for – as we go through some of these things, within our lifetimes – they've actually talked about a mini ice age coming. We talk about the globe heating up. Well, if you look back in history, you'll see any times that it heated up, it swung the other way, and sometimes it spent 200 million years in an ice age.

Well, in truth, we're actually in an ice age, but we've got this calm area of it and we're liable to go back into that a bit. Does that mean that humans are going to stop existing on Earth? No. This is a mini ice age. It just means things are going to get cold. And then we'll swing back into another heat cycle and a cold cycle and a heat cycle. The reality is I don't think we're going to be here. I think we're going to be here, but we're going to be in different bodies, just like Geoff and Jim are saying.

So the basis of the Group says we're not the humans we think we are. We're spirits inhabiting these human bodies and that we work with the Spirit, now we have the opportunity to really evolve into a whole different way, which is exactly what you're talking about. We can incorporate some of this.

Now, I love the idea of AI. I love to play with my Alexa. I love to – like I said, I love to build computers and run the different things. I'm very fortunate that I have a business that pays for all my toys, so I'm very happy with that and being able to do that.

The AI that's coming is already here. We don't see it. If any of you have Windows 10, you'll notice that just a short time ago with one of the updates, you started getting these fun little images, these beautiful images, and Microsoft is going to ask you, "Do you like this image or do you like other images?" And you can say, "I like this" or "I'm not a fan." And new images come up all the time and you get to vote on them. What do you like to see on your – that is AI. They can learn so much about you from your choice of pictures and believe me they are.

Now, is that an evil thing? No. They're going to use it for marketing. It's very out in the open. Microsoft is in business to make money; that's what they're going to do. So, these are all typical AI things that are going to infiltrate our lives in different ways that we're not sure about, and you can play or not play. It's going to be entirely up to you.

We're also seeing AI coming in the area of robotics. We've been here before. We've been here in Atlantis. We've made some serious mistakes in Atlantis that we hope we look differently at as we go forward, because we have the opportunity to treat this totally differently.

We do have the changes going on with the genes. We're learning about DNA. This magnificent thing that's come along called a CRISPR is explaining exactly what Geoff talks about – being able to take a little piece of the DNA, move it over here. In reality, our DNA in our body is very much almost identical to a mosquito. Only one little tiny piece of movement of that DNA. Now we've got CRISPR technology that can actually take that piece out.

So what can we do? We can evolve the human being in the physical form, but it's not our spirit. That's the important part.

What Geoff is talking about, I believe, in the area of ...

GEOFF: Homo Techno?

STEVE: Homo Christos?

GEOFF: Yeah. Oh, Homo Christos.

STEVE: Homo Christos.

GEOFF: Right.

STEVE: ... is basically what we're referring to as the step into bioluminescence or light body, as Jim has been calling it. We all come up with the different words, but basically we're moving out of the physical body. We don't need the density that we've been carrying all this time.

And it's a huge evolutionary leap out of homo sapien altogether. If you look back, you'll see that those leaps happened very quickly. Nobody can say that there was a huge gap of 50, 100, 300 years that it took. It's almost as if it happened overnight. It's happening now, and we're seeing it take place.

So, what does it mean? Well, let me just give you the very basics about the dimensionality that we talk about. We talk about dimensionality in two ways. Number one is the collective dimensions. We live in a collective dimension. We've been in a collective dimension of the third dimension. Time is different in the third dimension.

Let's go back. In unity consciousness, first dimension. We're all connected. We don't need time. There's no time at Home. We come in here. We start playing the game. We go through the second dimension, which is experienced as folded time, and we start having a little separation. We land in the third dimension where we have past, present and future in a linear fashion. We've learned to think in a linear fashion. We speak in a linear fashion. It's how we've evolved.

Now we move through the fourth dimension, which talks about circular time, and we're starting to become very much aware that we repeat our past. We repeat it to perfect it, and if we don't deal with it, it comes back up in our face. It comes back up, just like Jim was talking about, it all comes to the surface right now. So that was the fourth-dimensional imprints we get from circular time.

But now we're stepping into the fifth dimension and anchoring in the fifth dimension. As we do, time is spiral, and we step out of the line altogether. If you can imagine a spiral, which is a circle and a line coming together, if you can imagine that spiral, we don't have to be in the spiral at all. We can be in the center, which is a state of being, and that's what we're learning to do – that still space. And in that space, things come to us. We don't need to go out and consciously create anything. We can be our spirit, and the more that we can do that, the more that the spirit starts evolving through the physical body, the light carries more in the physical body, and it's going to happen almost in the blink of an eye. And we'll have all these different levels and being able to do this, to be able to work with.

The most important piece about this is we're not to judge people who stay behind. We're going to need people to stay behind. There's going to be a lot of people leaving the Earth, dying, and many are being called Home to be on the other side to be able to assist from there. So there's a lot of things taking place very rapidly that are going to be happening in different ways that we evolve, and that is going to be the part, is learning to live in that spiral TimeSpace.

Now, in spiral time, we have to think in a spiral fashion. We're used to linear. We're used to one moment after the other. What if we were able to bring it all in at once? Well, that's what we're getting used to and that's what some of our trainings are starting to be about. We call it Spiral Time Thought and TimeSpace being together as one.

So living in that space – and I think that has a lot to do with your levels that you talk about, about being in that space, it's just simply a different way of describing it – we step out of the line altogether. We put ourselves in the middle of that spiral and everything revolves around us. And we become spiritual beings, the spiritual beings we are, with a little bit of the human attributes that we can start to lessen and step out of. In that case, we can step out of and watch this wonderful transition of planet Earth, still be here and not have to worry, “Am I going to live through this? Is it going to get too cold for me?” We can actually step into a spiritual space of being in that place and emanate that spirit through the body. That is bioluminescence. And we're stepping into it. It's happening on a regular basis. We all have an opportunity to step into it and different levels of it.

So that's the piece that we wanted to share with things and be able to kind of put that in a little bit different flavor. But it's fascinating to hear you guy's story about how this and how this works.

JIM: Yeah, it is.

STEVE: It really is interesting.

GEOFF: I've got a feeling this is all going to continue on.

STEVE: Yep.

GEOFF: Yeah. I think both individually in all of our work put together. I mean, there's just so much synergy in it.

STEVE: It is.

JIM: Yep.

STEVE: Amazing.

LINDA: So ...

STEVE: Thank you, Linda.

LINDA: No, thank you. So you hear three very different perspectives and yet very similar perspectives in some way. But listening to this, it's kind of like, "Holy cow!" (panel chuckles)

STEVE: We're in that moment, yes.

LINDA: So, can you talk a little bit about how do you take on this next step that you're talking about and still stay here?

(slight pause as they look at each other)

JIM: I can ...

LINDA: Talk amongst yourselves (she snickers).

GEOFF: Yeah.

JIM: So one of the reasons I think we use the word "levels" is not necessarily because there are levels, but it's a reference point to the rational mind ...

STEVE: Right.

JIM: ... to get a point in space and define itself. That's all that is. There's no truth to that. It's just a reference point basically, "Keep track of myself. Where am I going."

This shifting that's happening, there's an interesting piece – I'll add one more here – is in that level of being able to raise up to a lighter, faster vibrational field happens when you begin to step out of the "I'm not okay." So if you hold on to anger, rage, resentment, you know how that feels, and when you play in laughter, happy, you know, amusement, you know how that feels. And so, if you say, "Which one is simpler to navigate?" it's really in the ease of laughter, enjoyment, those type of things.

So this 'clearing away the baggage' that's coming up is really all about being able to navigate in a lighter, faster way. And one of the pieces that came up recently in a conversation, and I don't remember how it actually came about, but we were talking about death, and the statement was, "Well, death isn't what you think it is," and so it kind of evolved into an interesting conversation. And if you think about death, basically everybody in a physical body defines it really clearly, virtually the same thing – "The body comes to an end and that's all there is to it." But in this discussion it was, "That's not what death is. That's just the body coming to an endpoint.” So, in fact, you’re really all looking forward to death. So, well, what is death? And if you listen to people in their last minute, their last ten seconds, if you’ve ever had that opportunity, they basically lay there and say, “Oh, wow! This is so beautiful!” and “Oh! Look at the angels!” and that’s death.

So the question was raised, “Why are you waiting until you lose the body to experience that?”

GEOFF: Yeah. Yeah.

JIM: Because in real terms, as you begin to let go of the baggage and you begin to recognize, “Where I’m standing and observing is my truth, my ability to shape my truth into exactly what I want – death” – well, then take the word “death” away from it and just simply beauty, elegance, joy, happy, laughter. Wait, wait! Didn’t we just talk about that a minute ago?

So here’s that whole possibility to step into this aspect of yourself without calling it something, and in that third-dimensional reality, who labeled that and how did that come about? And then it became a belief system. You know, taxes and death, that’s all there is to it. Well, we know taxes don’t count anywhere, because I’ve been watching Donald (some chuckles), and that’s another subject.

GEOFF: Distraction. Distraction.

JIM: Was I bad? Sorry (more chuckles). So ...

LINDA: No, there is no good or bad here.

JIM: Oh, oh, thank you. I feel much better (laughter).

LINDA: Just levels.

STEVE: Just levels! I love it!

JIM: So a lot of what’s happening is as you get out of this, and Steve, something you said – we’ve talked about this many times – is if you can begin to recognize thoughts are electrical and emotions are magnetic. And so, well, let’s even break emotions and feelings in two parts, because – Geoff, I heard you and Adamus say something similar to this – the rational mind creates emotions. Does that sound like something you said?

GEOFF: Mm hmm. Yeah. Yeah.

JIM: And feelings are in the heart. And so, an interesting way of playing with that is if you look at emotions and you say, “Well, what are emotions?” – to a great extent separating it – anger, rage, resentment, judgment, they all have edges to them. Have you ever noticed that doesn’t feel good? Joy, happy, certain, capable, amusement, heart space doesn’t have ... (electronic pops are heard) ... edges to ... (pop, pop) ... edges to them.

GEOFF: Metatron.

JIM: Did that?

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

JIM: Yeah (Steve chuckles). So if you can begin to have that ... (pop) ... as a simple statement – emotions, feelings – again (pop), all it is ... I’m not going to move.

GEOFF: Oh, now we can really play. Linda's gone (to get another mike). Okay.

JIM: Oh, all right (laughter). So if you can separate out as a frame of reference, not a truth – emotions have edges, feelings are smoother – the ability to start to notice, “I am out of balance” and let that begin to go. But where Steve was saying the magnetic field of the Earth is beginning to change, your emotional body is a magnetic field. It holds – think about, “I’m really angry” – well, does that feel like it’s really magnetically held in one place to a great extent? Or words like, “I’m stuck” or “This isn’t going to change. This is always how it’s going to be.” Can you hear the magnetism in the locking that all down?

So, one of the things that I’m watching is going to occur as the magnetic field around the Earth changes, all of that noise is going to come to the surface as emotions. But if you can begin to segment it out, you’re going to find that changing those emotions are going to be much more helpful to moving to that state of “What I want,” and I’m going to call it death here and I’m going to call it joy here. So let’s throw away the death definition. (Linda turns off Jim’s mike and gives him another one)

GEOFF: What are you doing to him?

JIM: Oh, thank you. So ...

GEOFF: One thing I forgot to mention when I had my ten minutes was tied in with all of this ... (Steve laughs) Yeah! Tied in with all of this, Adamus has been talking lately about Gaia’s leaving. Gaia’s been here, kind of created the life on Earth and which we’re all living, but she/he is leaving over the next couple hundred years. So look at how – I mean, look at the convergence of everything that’s happening right now. Gaia’s leaving, we’re bringing in consciousness, the human species is changing. What an amazing time to be here on the planet, if you recognize what’s going on. If you don’t, you were talking about being unconscious of being unconscious, I couldn’t even imagine going back to that state, but a lot of humans are in it. No judgment, but ...

STEVE: Right.

GEOFF: ... ugh! But Linda asked the question, you know, what to do right now, and it’s be aware of why you’re here, why you chose to be here. Be aware of the new passion. You know, the old passion used to be, I don’t know, whatever it was for you. But the new passion is bringing consciousness into biology, and I do believe that the people that we work with aren’t going to go the route of nanotechnology, implants or anything like that. Won’t need them.

STEVE: Right.

GEOFF: Won’t have them. I also feel that ... if you’re aware of this term “singularity” – it’s bounced around a lot in the AI business – basically, singularity means the point where nothing is the same anymore, you couldn’t even fathom it in this mindset. You know, from today you cannot see into that tomorrow, because it’s so different. And I think what’s happening is we’re going through our own version of singularity – we might call it Realization or enlightenment – without all the technology or the robotics or any of that. We’re going through it because we’re simply allowing our consciousness to come in in huge quantities that’s never been done before.

Actually, the body and the mind were not ready for it, and the work you have been doing with everybody, and what we’re doing – we’ve spent 20 years or more – and it’s all been in preparation of this huge infusion of consciousness into biology. We’re not going to need nanotechnology.

STEVE: It's opening the door to it.

GEOFF: Yeah.

STEVE: Nanotechnology and AI and everything else is giving us an idea of how we're going to incorporate it into ourselves as we move forward. So, yeah.

GEOFF: Right.

STEVE: Yeah, I agree with you. Absolutely.

JIM: There's an aspect of that – nanotechnology is a tremendous science, absolutely fascinating – but when you get down to it, nanotechnology is simply a particle of light that's no longer a wave, nonphysical.

GEOFF: Yes.

JIM: It's a particle in physicalness, and it has the capacity to hold consciousness also.

GEOFF: Yeah.

JIM: And it's aware of itself being aware of itself. So, when we start to play in this space where we are now playing, one of the things that I'm aware of is your ability as a consciousness to bring yourself into that level of particle – fully conscious – and alter it, change it, utilize it for your own best utilization is absolutely available to you, and it's in that field of potential. And so being the creator or being the smallest particle there is in this spiraling time, as you define it, Steve, in Present Time where everything becomes available and nothing moves, similar spot, the ability to be whatever it is you wish to be in that consciousness begins to be very available. In that space there is an evolution that goes with it. So in real terms we've been playing in this party called Earth and we've been playing in this party called body and the party's over.

GEOFF: Yeah, party's over. Party's over.

JIM: We're going to go now home and we're going to play in another party.

STEVE: Right.

GEOFF: Yeah.

JIM: So it's not that traumatic if you begin to define it in terms that allow you to have ease to navigate the possibilities, rather than the limitations that are there to you because the Earth is going to end or whatever belief system you hold in that place. You're the creator.

GEOFF: To me, the frightening part of it is not evolving into new species, many new species, but the influence of artificial intelligence. You know, the nanotechnology, it's kind of cool. All those type of things I'm very comfortable with. But when I look, feel, out into the future and what artificial intelligence or superintelligence can do in the wrong hands – and all it takes is one wrong hand – that's frightening.

JIM: Yes.

GEOFF: And that's ... you know, the genetic part, the biology I'm real comfortable with, but Steve, you ...

STEVE: We're seeing it.

GEOFF: ... have an interesting take on ...

STEVE: Yeah, well, we're seeing the technology evolve very quickly. You know, here in the United States we have this situation with guns, trying to decide whether we're going to control guns, whatever. In the meantime, you can print a gun with a three hundred dollar printer.

GEOFF: Yeah, laser ...

JIM: 3D printer.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: 3D printer that's no longer there. So the question is the technologies are here, how do we want to use them? What are we going to accept? How are we going to anchor this in different ways?

LINDA: That's huge. How?

STEVE: Well, that's the question we're all being faced with is how – the technology's not going to go away. That's the part ...

GEOFF: It will not.

STEVE: It is going to continue to evolve. The question is, at a certain point we're going to anchor that, we will become the technologies internally as spirit. We don't need the outside influence or even the gene splicing or any of the other things around that eventually. But in the meantime, we have all these new things that are kind of setting the way for that and to be able to do that.

And the other piece that I want to bring up is we also talk about multidimensional aspects. Two ways of talking about dimensionality. One's a collective and the other is the individual. The Group actually says we're in – and they just give this as an illustration – but we're in 11 different dimensions. And what that means is that you have different aspects. You're making different choices over here than you are over here. The spirit is perfect. When it comes to Earth, it has to pretend to be imperfect. Nothing you can experience here is perfect.

So you're hiding a little bit of your perfection in each one of these aspects. They're all making different choices. Over here, you want to decide whether you want a Kia or you want a Cadillac, and you decide on the Kia and over here you took the Cadillac. So that your spirit can have all these experiences when they come home to integrate into your Self and to evolve your spirit, which is really what the game is all about.

GEOFF: And then you get in a car wreck on the way home.

STEVE: Yeah! (Geoff chuckles) You buy the Kia that nobody's ever had and you see 20 of them on the way home.

GEOFF: Right.

STEVE: So that's part of the different experiences. And we've been separate from our perfection, and that is changing as well. And especially as this dimensionality is starting to change and the magnetic field of Earth is starting to lessen, the walls that separate us between dimensions is also lessening. So we have the opportunity to do multidimensional healing. We have the opportunity to connect with another part of ourselves, not only to heal us, but for us to heal them and to come back in union to carry that perfection in the body that we talk about, the bioluminescent. And the first step of that is letting go.

It's letting go of all that stuff that we've carried forward. And if you've ever had a belief system that was really important to you, and then one day you find out it was wrong or something changed, and all of a sudden, it doesn't make any difference. All that energy that you gave it out of your past, that's not going to work in the next level. So we have to start letting go of that. And that's what morphogenics is all about. It's about preparing everything and stepping out of the third-dimensional timeline.

LINDA: I'm still trying to figure out how we're going to survive this huge, huge influx of artificial intelligence and the control and potentials that it brings to our lives. I can handle me better than I can handle that. Anybody else feel like that? No? Just me. Forget my question.

STEVE: It's already here.

GEOFF: It's here. Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: It's here. We're not seeing it all the time.

GEOFF: And they're going to try to regulate it, like they're going to try to regulate nanotechnology. There's been a number of worldwide conventions about nanotechnology and they've come up with all these guidelines. Nobody's paying attention to them. It's inevitable. It's here, and I think that's also the reason why we're here. And I know the work you do ...

LINDA: What does that mean? What does that mean?

GEOFF: It means that in the work you guys do with your groups, so often the people are saying, "Why am I here? Where is my passion? What am I supposed to be doing?" It's like you're doing it right now allowing in what Adamus is calling the Homo Christos body – the light body – into your being. And you'll find you don't need the nanotechnology. You can have it if you want. You don't need it. There are a lot of things you just don't have to get caught in. I think the hardest part is going to be, in that Christos body, do you really want to stay? And I'm going to – geez ... we're going to ... agh!

STEVE: You just opened a rather big door, my friend.

GEOFF: A huge door! (Steve chuckles) A huge door. And Adamus has talked a little bit about it and said basically stop worrying about stuff like that ...

STEVE: Exactly.

GEOFF: ... because you're looking at it through human eyes. He's said in the true Homo Christos body – which is not just the physical – but he's said you're going to be able to be here and be there. You're going to be able to have a next lifetime without ever being born. I think we're all tired of the old biological birthing and bad families and all the rest of that (some chuckles), and he said you're going to be able to come from the future into Now, and it's mindboggling, and that's the singularity. My mind can't even fathom that, but he said, "Watch what happens next. And stop dwelling on your problems. Get rid of them. They're not your problems. They're your ancestors'."

STEVE: That's what the Group talks about with spiral time. In spiral time, we step out of the line. We can time travel.

GEOFF: Yeah. Yeah.

STEVE: And, in fact, many of you may be here from the future right now ...

GEOFF: Ooooooh!

STEVE: ... to plant some important things.

GEOFF: No, it's true.

STEVE: Many of you may be here. They gave a channel one time called "Five Words in Time." You may have come back with as little as five words that you're going to utter at a perfect time to the perfect person to start something into motion, and that's important. So we have that capability.

GEOFF: It goes very weird and very wonderful.

STEVE: Yeah, it is.

GEOFF: Yeah.

LINDA: Could Jim add something? (laughter)

JIM: Whoa! That's deep!

LINDA: You looked anticipating.

JIM: I was. Thank you.

LINDA: Okay.

JIM: So, you know, think about it in terms of high school and your senior year in high school and you're now a month away from graduating. And there are a lot of weird people in your high school class and a lot of interesting people in your high school class, but are you paying any attention to any of them? Or maybe the two really good friends and, "What are we going to do and how are we going to ..."

But for the most part, if you think about it, all those others that were in that class, they're starting to already fall away. Your attention is moving into the immediate future.

LINDA: Good analogy.

JIM: And if you think about it just like that in here, we can spend a lot of time on nanotechnology and robots and the ethics of AI and those kind of things, but you're evolving. You're graduating. You're stepping into another level.

STEVE: That's it.

GEOFF: Exactly.

JIM: You're beginning to have joy in your attention point, but this guy over here, he's going to do this thing. And in my high school class – I learned this a long time after – is I knew this one guy who was a very interesting guy, and he now runs one of the biggest arm's manufacturers in the world, in the United States.

And this guy was so cool at the time. This wouldn't even have been in his reality. But you don't know the pathway people take to get to where they're going to go. But, in a way, I left that guy behind, and you're all going to leave behind – I don't mean people and things – but your reality, as you're defining it as truth, is in the process of being very rapidly transformed if we can just simply stand there in present time, “What's next? What would I like to do? What would I like to create? How would I like to enjoy myself?” That's the piece that leaves everything else behind. And whether AI turns into an ethics issue and we wind up with robots who take over the world, it won't be in your world ...

GEOFF: That's right.

JIM: ... as you begin to get there.

GEOFF: I think that's the important thing.

STEVE: Be observers. Yeah.

GEOFF: We can be observers.

LINDA: That sounds like an incredibly good summary statement.

JIM: Wow.

GEOFF: That was (a few chuckles).

LINDA: So I think this would be a great time, if you're all okay, that we get ready for the break and as part of that, I'd like to invite you, if you have a question you'd like to be presented to our team here, send it to speak.angels@gmail.com. And we'll be back after a 30-minute break. Thank you, everyone. Thank you, Steve ...

JIM: Jim.

LINDA: ... Jim (some chuckles), and Geoffrey. Thank you so much.

GEOFF: Good. Thank you (audience applause). Thanks.

LINDA: Thirty minutes.

SESSION 2

LINDA: Welcome back to the New Human series. We're ...

GEOFF: (whispers) Species. Species.

LINDA: The New Human Species. See, I can't even get it right (laughter). I'm telling you, the energy up here is a freakin' fog.

STEVE: It is (laughter).

GEOFF: No, it is.

STEVE: That's a good way to put it.

LINDA: No, it is.

STEVE: It is.

LINDA: No, really. Jim is like, "You didn't even know my name." It's like, "Well, that wasn't you that I was seeing." (more laughter)

LINDA: No, it's pretty intense up here! Okay. But I'm excited.

JIM: Was I better looking? (more chuckles) Moving on.

LINDA: Felt pretty good (laughter). That was loaded.

Okay, so are we ready for questions and answers? There are quite a few that have been emailed in. This live audience is counting on the quality of your questions, because they submitted almost nothing. Two questions, one statement. That's it. That's it. So, it's good that we have all these people emailing in questions.

And I'm going to open this up with an overall statement about the questions that I have been reading through so far, and one of the things that I found interesting is that many of these questions are related to the fear and concern about how to understand or know if you are navigating this properly? How is it that you're to know that and that you're doing it right and you're doing it well?

GEOFF: Interesting.

LINDA: So we'll start with that question.

GEOFF: Wow. Who do you want to go first?

LINDA: Oh! Oh, I think Steve (a few chuckles).

STEVE: Okay. I'll go. The biggest part about is if we're wondering if we're doing it right, if we're racing ahead to try and figure out the fastest way to go, you're doing it wrong. We don't need to be there. You're doing a third-dimensional reality in the fifth dimension.

STEVE: How about if you just take a breath and just be, and experience what's around you and allow yourself to find – again, that center of that spiral is huge, and if we can find that still space.

You know, many people meditate; many people have meditated for years. I do it in a slightly different way, but everybody has tried to find that Now moment. If you've ever taken TM or any of that instructional work to do that, it's all about finding in the Now moment this very present moment, and that's what we're looking for.

But we don't have to go through a lot of technology to do it. We don't even have – how about if we meditate in an elevator? How about if we meditate for a second while we're in the grocery store? Now it's time to start using it on a practical basis, and the question is really about how do we step into that, what's the next step that we can take.

JIM: I can add a piece to that too. The question I've asked is which thought feels better? The one that says fearful, "Oh, my God, the world's coming to an end?" Or the one that simply says in present time, again, right here, "How am I doing?" And then the question is how do you choose? Do you wish to hold your attention on this that's fearful and habitual and a belief system that generally isn't even your belief system, or a thought that "I can totally manage and choose"?

One of the other things that I watch in relation to that question is the reality is you are absolutely okay. You cannot be not okay. But you wear a shirt that's too small and shoes that don't fit and the colors don't match because mom, dad, teacher, minister said, "This is good for you" and you believed them.

LINDA: Yeahh! (laughter)

JIM: You had one of those? So in that space we carry a lot of stuff and in the space where, "I'm okay; I'm not my stuff."

STEVE: Right.

JIM: If you get really present and simply recognize, "I can't be anything but okay and I'm fine, and my rent's due, my relationship is in etc., etc.," that's stuff. When you get to the place of, "I am okay; I can deal with my stuff. But when I'm my stuff, I can't find where I'm okay." And that begins to be a really simple way of addressing that piece.

LINDA: Okay, good

GEOFF: Adamus talks a lot of about let's go beyond just our single focus of being a human. He talks about the And, that we're not just human and we've got the human, who is the experiential part of our journey. Human loves the experience and – good or bad – just loves experiencing. But if you're feeling fearful at all, take a deep breath, go beyond the human, feel into the Master, which is the wisdom, the I Am, which is the consciousness. They're not fearful at all, because, first of all, they don't worry about death. They don't have tomorrow anxiety like humans do, and they're looking forward to this, that part of you.

So, if you feel stuck in that fear, well, first of all realize it's just a really cool experience. Then take a deep breath and go into the And and feel where the Master and the I Am are. They are so looking forward to this. They're being invited into this reality, the human's reality; they're being invited in as part of this whole amazing transformation and it's like Jim said, you get your choice. You want to stay in the human perception of fear or go into the Master's perception of, "Wow! This is really amazing. Look what we're doing."

And, you know, that being said too, it's not up to the human to do the enlightenment. It's not. The human couldn't do it if it tried, would absolutely screw it up. So human, just have fun with it! And Adamus says all the time, hard to believe once in a while, but he says, "This is the greatest lifetime and the greatest time of this lifetime, what we're going through. Don't waste it on worrying and holding back ..."

STEVE: Exactly.

GEOFF: "... and dive into it and discover really what you really are, who you are." Just have a blast with it.

STEVE: I would like to add one thing about that. Fear can only exist in the future. If you stop and think about it, it can only exist in the future, which means that you're thinking in a linear timeframe, a third-dimensional timeframe. How about if you step out of it and you say, "Am I okay right now? Am I good right at this very second?" And that's the point to live from. That's the point to live from. And then from then we can project into it in a totally different way.

JIM: We keep talking present time. It really is the only answer. You can't create in the past or in the future. You only create right now. But getting into it as a practice, just "I'm fine right here" and just recognize it in the Right Now moment. Practice when it doesn't count. Don't wait until it's, "I've got to deal with 'Am I okay?'" Just practice when it doesn't count. Just sit there right now and just recognize, "I'm fine. I've got stuff going on and I'm fine." And it begins to be, not a mantra, but it begins to be a pattern that allows you to choose differently.

GEOFF: And you said it before, Jim. We're going to be here observing this phenomena on the planet. You don't have to get involved in the drama, in the negative parts of it. You just step back and just observe it in your own mastery. And the world could be going crazy all around you and it actually will go crazy all around you. It's not your world. I mean, it's really not. This is such a different lifetime than any other.

STEVE: Look at the news. The world is going crazy right now.

GEOFF: Oh, yeah, yeah. Yeah.

STEVE: Absolutely.

(All questions read by Linda)

QUESTION: There were several references made to the two Earths. What is the situation with two Earths?

(pause, as Jim looks to Steve, Steve look to Geoff and Geoff looks behind him to the wall; laughter)

GEOFF: Adamus? (more laughter) We talked about it last year. Adamus has talked about it quite a bit and the fact that they're not coming together. There's a different set of consciousnesses. This new – what is he calling it – the Homo Christos, is going to be able to actually coexist, be on both. You're going to be able to be here and you're going to be able to be there at the same time.

Some of this boggles my mind when Adamus wakes me up at two in the morning and starts going through this and I'm like, "Whoa! I can't handle this." But it's absolutely amazing. Some of it seems like sci-fi, but yet as things progress I'm starting to really realize, you know, we're coming to this point of the integration of the light or the Free Energy body and the things we're going to be able to do are going to be mind-blowing. And the human is going to doubt it because it says, "Well, that's not my linear path." It's like "Shut up, human. Just experience it. You're not driving this car anymore. You're just experiencing it." And I think the ability to let go, stop having the human part of yourself try to do enlightenment or try to do any of this. It's not going to work. Once you take a deep breath and you open up into the And, into all of yourself, everything changes. And then the human stops worrying. It realizes, "Oh, wow! I don't have to figure this all out myself. I've got the I Am. I've got my divinity here. We're just going to have a ball with it."

JIM: Yeah, there's going to be a point where you are going to just simply hold out your hand and the apple is going to appear.

GEOFF: Yeah.

JIM: And then as soon as that happens, the rational mind is going to go into, "Oh, I can't do that again. I'm sure I can't do that again." Basically, you'll start to talk you right out of it.

GEOFF: Right.

JIM: But you'll do it again and you'll do it again and then you'll create a banana, and then you'll create a house and then you'll create – and that whole aspect of simply having a thought and manifesting it in that Christos body is absolutely available to you right now.

GEOFF: And Jim, other people might not see that apple and if you expect that they do ...

STEVE: It doesn't make any difference.

GEOFF: It doesn't make a difference.

JIM: No. No.

GEOFF: Because they're going to be operating in a little bit different reality base.

JIM: Exactly. Exactly. But there is an opportunity to this – and this is where I play in this space – is that level of once you start to understand that for yourself, the ability to start to hold different frequencies of light, the ability to sit on a park bench anywhere in the world and just radiate that vibration and people will simply begin to put down their guns because they will forget why they ever held their gun in their hand.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah. Yep.

JIM: That's the opportunity of that Christos body that we were all pointing to right here.

STEVE: Right.

JIM: You're going to find that you'll simply hold out your hand and provide the apple to the little child that's hungry and the little child is not going to ask you, "Where did it come from?"

GEOFF: That's right.

JIM: And then you'll walk away, because you can, without being engaged in, "Oh, geez, I created an apple." There's no ego.

LINDA: There's some outrageous barbarism that's been coming to light on this planet that is beyond anything I could have imagined. Are you saying that that Christos energy really could affect that?

JIM: It will absolutely affect that.

GEOFF: Oh, that's why we're here!

STEVE: That's why we're here, to hold that energy. You know, the Group talks about we have a very limited range that we can perceive with our physical bodies. Even if we just take what is called the electromagnetic spectrum and over here you've got x-rays and over here you've got gamma rays and things that we can't see. Our visible light, what we call visible light, is this tiny little section.

We are tuned to a frequency that we can have our experience in. What if we were able to open up to more? That's what is holding. That's what we're talking about. And to do that we have to step out of the old stuff, let go of the old linear thinking, let go of the old, "I'm not okay," let go of the old, "I am my past or I'm concerned about my future." All that process steps out of it and we can start widening our ranges of perception and loosening the density of the physical body as we step into the higher thing. The Group has said one thing that just gives me hope. Even when they gave this line in the sand, so to speak, they said, "Wait until you see what's coming." And that's what I hold. That's exactly what I hold.

GEOFF: So, in chatting to Adamus the other night where he gave me these four species, we had a very interesting talk. He was talking things my human mind cannot understand – at the moment I thought I might have, but now I can't – but I did ask him, I said, "So obviously there are billions of homo sapiens and there's going to be a lot of the ..." – what was the next category? – the ...

JIM: Robo.

GEOFF: Home Techno and then the robots. I said, "How many of the Homo ..." um ... (someone says "Christos") Christos. Thank you. How many are we talking about?

STEVE: Channeling him (laughter).

GEOFF: "How many are we talking about?" I was thinking he was going to come and talk about millions. I was surprised when he said in the next 100 years, probably 50,000. That's not a lot.

JIM: Yeah.

GEOFF: And he said, “But that’s enough that it changes the balance of consciousness and it provides enough ...” not that we’re trying to go out and force others to change, but it provides enough examples or Standards.

STEVE: Exactly.

GEOFF: Because they see somebody like you, and they might not know what it is about you, but it literally changes their life. Just your Presence, that’s it.

JIM: In simple terms, in that body you have the capacity to take a 40-degree day and turn it into a 75-degree day.

GEOFF: Yeah.

STEVE: Yes.

JIM: And real simple. Just think about it. How uncomfortable are you at 45 degrees walking around naked in the street? I know some of you do that (some chuckles). Raising it to 75 degrees, that discomfort goes away. And that’s all we’re talking about is creating a level of light that provides an environment to choose differently. But you will be able to create that environment. And not fix anybody ...

GEOFF: Right.

JIM: ... just simply provide the environment, the vibration for others to choose.

GEOFF: That’s a big footnote: Don’t try to fix anybody.

JIM: Please.

STEVE: No, that’s another trap.

GEOFF: It’s a trap. Yeah.

STEVE: That’s a trap. You can hold the door open, but you can’t do anything more than that. You can set an example of who you are and what that feels like for you and how you did it, and that’s it.

JIM: Yeah.

STEVE: That’s your job. Plain and simple.

LINDA: I’m going to indulge an audience question from here.

GEOFF: Wow.

QUESTION: Steve and the Group, you often say, “Wait till you see what’s coming.” (Steve chuckles) Would you speak about that?

STEVE: Well, what if we could see further than we could see even with our eyes? We actually do some of those exercises. In our Live Master course, we do something called Scatter Shot. I’ll share it with you. It’s very simple. Instead of focusing on one thing like the camera, I’m going to shoot all over the room and focus here, focus here, focus here and focus here. And what that does is that keeps my intellect out of it, and I’m picking up energy very quickly. That is one way we can start training the optic nerve to start receiving some of the wider ranges between that.

So, we're going to have more of these things coming, and it's not just our eyes. It's not even just the five senses we have. We're going to find out we have closer to eight that we can access right away. Well, everybody knows you can feel energy, but nobody knows where. How do you feel energy? You know, have you ever had somebody stand behind you and you know somebody's standing behind you but you don't know why? Or how you got that? Those are senses that we do not know about because we've been limited to this little tiny range of vibration that we could play with. Once we start opening this up, we're going to see all sorts of things and that's exciting.

And the interesting part about this we think about, will we be able to create anything we want? What if you didn't have any want?

GEOFF: What if it was already there waiting for you?

STEVE: What if it was already there waiting?

JIM: In the potential.

GEOFF: Yep.

STEVE: That's it. And that's the space that we're moving to and that's why the Group keeps saying – and it drove me nuts when they first started saying this, absolutely crazy. “What are you talking about? You're telling me on one hand we've got 50 years left to do this,” and by the way, that has expanded now. We're looking at 65 at the moment. Next three years ...

GEOFF: It's still not real ... (he chuckles)

STEVE: The next three years will have a big influence on how we do that having to do with the solar cycles and everything we talked about. But we can expand it. And I know many people are disagreeing with that, and that's fine. You don't have to take my truth. You don't have to do anything. They did it for a reason, so that we'd understand that we live in this time. We want to step out of the timeline? We don't have to have that line. Interesting things.

JIM: Let me add a piece to that. There's a part – I'm going to use some words, because, again, words just being a reference – but one of the things that's happening with your intuition skills, and we can run through about 22 of them that you have. You just basically say clairvoyance, clairsentience, telepathies. There are more. But in that process there's something – again, I'm going to use this word – in historical terms, there's something called the Eye of Horus. And the Eye of Horus isn't a necklace, or it isn't a Mystery School in Egypt. It is a configuration in the brain. And as this level of awareness is happening, in particularly as those magnetic fields are beginning to drop, the ability of Spirit to begin to put itself back together, for example, that mental-emotional body going back together, but this Eye of Horus allows for an integration of those spiritual intuitions and abilities, and they begin to function as a unit of awareness. So it's not like “I see” or “I feel.” It begins to be a perspective of reality that is not common to you in those abilities being either turned off, turned down or individually applied.

And so this sense of starting to know what's going on is also not a rational mind experience. It is an allowing of awareness to be perceiving consciousness. And, again, it goes back to present time. I can't be leaning into my future or my past. But if you find that present time moment in the energies of these changes that are happening, these aspects of your physicalness are beginning to change also. So just pay attention of your ability to realize yourself saying, “Oh, I knew that” or “Gee, I thought that the other day.” Allow that to be kind of exciting, because that’s what’s turning on in all of you who are listening to this experience today.

LINDA: Okay. All right.

QUESTION: So if magnetism of Earth is weakening, how important is it for the human to do earthly grounding, etc.? And if not that, what?

STEVE: Well, I’ll take the first part of that. It’s very important for us to ground. We have a part of us which is part of the Earth, and that is our physical bodies, and without grounding the physical bodies and being able to do that, we can’t hold the spirit right now.

Now, are we going to eventually move out of that? Yes, we are. But grounding and working with harmony with the Earth is a huge thing. And that’s actually what’s going to determine how long we have with this whole process is how we deal with the Earth and how we harmonize with the Earth.

I don’t know if you’re aware of it, but many countries have taken stances against single use plastic in just the last few months. We’re starting to become aware, maybe not here in the United States yet, we’re kind of taking backwards steps right now, but we’re very much aware of how we can be in harmony with the Earth, how we can clean up the plastic from the ocean, how we can start to work with this on a harmony basis. That is all grounding, and the more that we can perfect now, the easier that step away from it’s going to be. If not, we have things we have to clear. We have almost like clearing up problems in your past. If we have abuse issues in our past and we ignore them, guess what? They’re going to come around to haunt us in the next time around, and the next part is we step up. If we deal with them, we let them go. They’re gone. They’re released. And that’s grounding. That’s the way the Group sees grounding.

JIM: Let me add a piece to that too. Yes, and there’s a whole aspect of you becoming conscious of you becoming conscious – not unconscious of conscious, but conscious of conscious – and in that space, there is this alignment in the heart, that internal guidance system of ‘appropriate’ and ‘inappropriate.’ And when you begin to look at the Earth in this context, all you can see is beauty and wellbeing and opportunity, and it’s in that place that you begin to be both in present time and grounded into a concept of integration and appropriateness. “How do I respect the Earth? How do I respect you while you respect me?” And that’s lost to some great extent in today’s environment that we play in in the external world.

But that nature of you beginning to realize you in present time is the same as you engaging with the Earth, with each other, in that space of respect and dignity and appreciation. That’s what’s coming in this evolution. It’s turning on within each one of us. So it’s not the human thinking, “Well, how do I get there?” It’s really you beginning to be in that strata of consciousness of wellbeing – “I like me. I appreciate me.” I say that to all our students every session, “Would you just like yourself?” And the amazing amount of pushback that comes to, “Would you just like yourself?”

GEOFF: “But, but, but ...”

JIM: Right here, just play, “I like me.”

GEOFF: “But, but, but ...”

STEVE: “But, but ...” (he chuckles)

GEOFF: Along with that, for me, for so many of you I'm sure, things are so chaotic right now, changing so quickly and sometimes it's exhilarating and fun, but other times I have a hard time keeping up with it. For me, going out in nature, going out working in the yard is probably one of the oldest and most familiar constants on Earth. In other words, it kind of is a way of reassuring me, "Okay, everything's changing. But there's still this thing that you're so familiar with." It's kind of like going back to an old friend. So, I find it absolutely necessary when we're out on the road to just Linda and I go for long walks in nature or when I'm at home just work out in nature. And it's just a kind of reminder, "Okay, it's crazy, but this is an old familiar constant and nonthreatening energy."

STEVE: Beautiful.

JIM: You know, there's a story that I was told by Uriel one time and basically he was explaining how the elementals of the Earth got created, and they were created. And they were created before the fall of consciousness, and their purpose was to basically reflect back the Christed nature of the beings that came to visit the Earth to create in the beginning levels of physicalness and density; reflect back to them the Christed nature of who they are. It was like a mirror. And that process in the fall of consciousness was lost, and there's been numbers of things that have been done to bring the elementals back into the engagement of being able to reflect that Christed nature of who you are back to you by playing in the Earth, going for the walk, putting your feet in the stream, playing with the rock. It's the "Hello" to nature that you begin to see yourself in the Earth itself. And that process is beginning to be elevated by the elementals and will continue to be elevated in the next couple of years. It's really "liking me, liking myself," playing in the Earth and liking the Earth. And it begins to be this vibration back and forth that's going to elevate the heart to a level that you will like yourself.

LINDA: Okay. Now, I've gone through, again, going through the list of questions. One of the big questions is, again ...

QUESTION: What am I supposed to think as a human when I have huge pain issues, body issues, even cancer?

LINDA: There are several questions like this. "Am I doing it wrong? Am I going to have to leave?" And there's been at least a half dozen questions in that category.

STEVE: First thing I'd simply say about that is leaving is not wrong. We have to understand that death is simply a transition of your energy, and furthermore, there's going to be a lot of people called home who are going to play an incredibly important part of humanity's evolution that they're needed on the other side of the veil. So let's don't judge leaving as something bad.

Now, pain is going to accompany most stages of growth. Misery, however, is optional. So if we are okay with experiencing the pain and moving through it and not living in it, that's the hard part. Now, there are conditions and difficulties with physicalities of people that have pain. I've dealt with one myself. I've got a degrading back issue that's created some bulging spine things on me that have brought a lot of pain, and yet, I move past it. It does not define me. It's that simple. Now, maybe I won't run around the block quite the same way everybody else does, but it does not define me. I am not my pain. And that pain is a temporary thing to work through it, to ground it out, to release it. To get the gift of the pain and let the rest go is the difficult part. But if you do that and don't let it define you, I think it can be a momentary experience of growth.

GEOFF: Also, right now I think we're seeing the last hurrah of the human. Adamus talked about that in our last regular session a week ago or two weeks ago, and the human is kind of like doing its last hurrah with its drama, with its pain, with its body, with its whining and with everything else, because it knows it's on its way out. And one of the things it's doing is bringing up pain, partly to be released, but partly in kind of its whining.

In our New Energy body, in our Homo Christos, pain is going to essentially be a thing of the past. There actually really is no pain. I mean, your back doesn't hurt. It's your mind is sending a signal.

STEVE: That's right.

GEOFF: And it's an old survival signal saying, "Something's out of balance," to try to tell the human something. We're not going to need that anymore, because we're going to constantly be rebalancing, and we're still going to have our tough days in the human reality. We pick up a lot of junk in energy. Adamus says he can stick around for about three days and that's it (Steve laughs). He's got to go – he's ... because the gravity, the seduction is so heavy here. But you're still going to have the bad days, but then we're going to kind of – he had a word for it – but we kind of a like auto-rejuvenate and that's where nature comes in again. I just go out in nature. And we're going to essentially be pain-free. You don't need that archaic system of body alert to let you know something's out of balance. You just go into your – what do they call it in Star Trek? You were a Star Trek fan, Linda. Where you go into your chamber and you ...

JIM: Holodeck.

GEOFF: Your Holodeck or whatever and you just rejuvenate. Boom! You walk out. Pain is gone. And I think that's one of the exciting things about the new light body that's coming, and if we'd just get out of our way and let it happen. I mean, that's the most important thing.

LINDA: Another question related to that and any of you can answer this. Somebody asked ...

QUESTION: With all the incredible addiction to opioids, particularly in this country and other European countries, how does that impact this light body, this whole – the potentials?

GEOFF: Well, you don't want to be doing it. I mean, you know, whether it's SSRI drugs, the depression medications or the opioids or anything else, you're going to be putting a suppression, a blanket on your enlightenment, on your bringing in the light body. You're just shutting it down. And it's not that it's morally or anything else good or bad, it's you're suppressing it.

So right now is the time to be as open as you ever can be and if you've got pain, experience the pain. It's going to go away. If you've got depression, dive into the depression, rather than running from it or trying to suffocate it or anything. These things are all on their way out.

JIM: Let me give you a consideration. Earlier I said thoughts are electrical and emotions are magnetic. And when you look at an electromagnetic field, what you have for – and just being simple – a motor, you have a block of steel that has magnetic properties, and then as soon as you start to wrap an electrical wire around it, it begins to create more of a magnetic field. And so when you think about "I'm not okay" as a thought or somebody says to you, "You have a funny nose" and you happened to have had a funny nose when you were four years old, but you forgot about that, and somebody says that to you, you have a memory. And in this case, you then have a thought, "This isn't good." And immediately the emotional body kicks in and there is a feeling attached to this "This isn't good." Am I okay so far?

And then you start saying, "This isn't good. Does that mean they don't like me? I'm never going to be successful. Nobody is going to enjoy me. My problem is... my problem is... my problem is ..." Can you see the electromagnetic field that's getting wound?

GEOFF: And then it attracts energy that...

STEVE: It attracts experience.

JIM: Attracts more of this. And how does, “I don’t feel good” feel in the body generally? And have you ever noticed when you were surprised or assaulted by somebody’s insult, you go – (draws in a startled breath) – and did you ever notice that you never released that when they walked away? And so now the body is in this state of tension. It’s out of balance, and then there begins to be an irritation and then an inflammation and then a swelling and then that, “I’m not okay” drops into the physical body as a state of disease, rather than dis-ease.

So if you begin to think about, “I’m not okay,” how much you run through your body, and start to recognize that all of the “‘I’m not okay’ I’ve stuffed in my backpack” is all coming to the surface to be let go of, the more – if you can begin to have that sense of allowing it to leave, not arguing with it – the physical pain is going to be altered to some great extent also.

STEVE: And the other question is where is your energy?

JIM: Yeah.

GEOFF: Yeah.

STEVE: Is your energy going to be on your pain? Barbara and I were in Ankara, Turkey doing a seminar and I had a fever. It was about 102. I was not feeling well at all and I was getting ready to cancel the seminar, and I said, “You know, let me just go out. They’re all here. They’re all waiting. Let me just go out and I won’t hug anybody, I’ll explain the situation. I’ll just go out and see, and if it works, it works, and if not, I’ll go back up and go back to bed.” And I was fine. Then when the breaks came, I just about was ready to die, but when the Group came in I had an intent. I had a focus. I was on purpose, and the pain and everything else goes away.

Now, it doesn’t mean – I probably needed a little more rest, a little more fluids, a little more of the energies that our physical body needs. But that’s the other part. Are you going to focus on, “Oh, my god, I’m sick. How do I get rid of this pain? Am I doing something wrong?” Or can we just focus on, “What am I supposed to be doing?” you know. “What would I be doing right now if I didn’t have this pain?” and start stepping into it a little bit and watch how that magically disappears.

GEOFF: I think the other really important thing to realize is that that pain and the stuff going through your head, it’s not yours. The body is not yours. It’s your ancestor’s. It’s the ancestor’s genes and DNA and so many other things. It’s really not yours. We are inhabiting rented bodies.

STEVE: Good way to put it.

GEOFF: And it truly is, and most of your thoughts also. And once you recognize and thank and bless the ancestors, and then you take the body back. And I think a lot of the pain that is jumping up right now is the ancestors – all the stuff that was built into your body, including a back issue that’s really not yours – and some people have a really hard time with that. [It’s time to say], let go of the ancestors. Honor them and all the rest of that, but like, “Get out of here. I’m bringing in my body, my thoughts, my consciousness. I don’t want yours nor need them anymore. I’m going sovereign. And ya’ll have fun in your graves six feet under, but I’m going sovereign. I’m done with it.”

That is kind of a tough thing to do in a way, because we are so ingrained into our families, into our parents, into that lineage. And there are cultures that honor the lineage and I want to throw up (some chuckles).

But it's a tough step, but say, "That's not mine. You're all great entities in your own right, but these genes, this DNA is not mine. I am bringing my own in. I'm trading in this rental and I'm going to buy my own sovereign being." Then watch the transformation in your body. It's amazing.

STEVE: There's one other thing I'd like to add about addictions. We have a lot of addictions on the planet, and anything that can help us feel better, that can help us move past the pain, we can get a bit addicted to. And then there is a large portion of people, usually about one in seven or eight, who have addictive personalities who are more prone to be addicted to things than other people. Sometimes alcohol is their drug of choice. Sometimes it's opioids, whatever it is. There are people who have that. And the Group has done some very interesting things about this. They showed it to me in myself, because I'm one of those people.

Thirty-eight years ago, I gave up alcohol and have been successful at it. Everybody I went through the program with that tried it and tried to do the same thing were not successful. Why? That was my question, why? Why did many of my friends die from this disease and I walk free of it? I'm not burdened by it. What was that about? And the Group said, "You switched addictions" (laughter), which is what humans do. We switch addictions. What did I switch my addiction to? This work. My wife will tell you. Sometimes she has to go back there and pry me out of there going, "Okay, come on now. It's time to be a human again. Let's go up and be a family. Let's go out and do the process," because I'm addicted to the work. Now, is it an addiction that's positive for me? That's the idea.

If you're one of those people, find something to become addicted to, that you can move that addiction to and watch it work. People that use Alcoholics Anonymous usually step out of their addiction to alcohol and they become addicted to Alcoholics Anonymous.

GEOFF: Yep.

STEVE: Not necessarily that good either. So there are all kinds of ways of looking at this. But the idea is, if you're one of those people, find addictions that you love to do that are healthy for you, because they exist.

LINDA: Okay. There's a little bit of – it's parts to this. Okay, though this person is just curious on all your thoughts.

QUESTION: Would artificial intelligence have an emotional body? And if magnetics are changing and those are emotions, like rage, resentment, lower types of vibrations, wouldn't artificial intelligence bypass all that?

JIM: No.

GEOFF: No. No. It won't.

JIM: No. It's about evolving consciousness and how that aspect of you chooses to play in the consciousness.

GEOFF: Like the mind. It doesn't have real feelings, real sensual sensory feelings, so it creates something called emotions and drama as a cheap imitation. And I think artificial intelligence also, like robots and that, we're going to program them as close as we can to what we do.

STEVE: To mimic. Exactly.

GEOFF: Yeah, and it's going to mimic emotions and it will believe those emotions are real, therefore, they will be. But I don't think the more advanced robots are just going to be dronish. I think they will have personalities. My car has a personality.

STEVE: I think they will.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: I do. But right now I've got Alexa in my house, so I talk to her. And for all of those of you who are watching that have Alexa, "Alexa! Wake up!" (laughter)

GEOFF: Don't say that! We got it here! Jesus!

LINDA: I hate her!

GEOFF: No, we do.

LINDA: I hate her!

GEOFF: One time, she mis-heard something and started dialing people on the phone ...

STEVE: I know!

GEOFF: ... and we're in here having a gathering and she's calling people. It's like, "No, Alexa! Shut up!"

STEVE: No, don't do that! (more laughter)

GEOFF: Yeah, don't say that word in here! (laughing)

STEVE: But what would happen if your friend ...

GEOFF: Peter's freaking out. "Oh, no!" (he chuckles)

STEVE: Yeah. What would happen if your friend became very well known to you and knew your preferences and everything else and then you go out to your car and it adjusts the seat for you, it plays your favorite radio station, it may warm up the car for you? That's here.

GEOFF: Yeah.

LINDA: Yeah, I got one.

STEVE: That's here (more chuckles). They're here now. They're not quite adapted to it, but there's a new – I mean, we're going to see a lot of the AI and technologies take that. And we're going to have a lot of questions about that. The Group said 17 years ago we cloned the first human on planet Earth. That technology has been here for a long time.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: And they said it was done very quietly. Nobody wanted anybody to know about it. It was done as a baby, as a very small child, and that child is now 17 years old.

Now, the interesting question is, does the child have a spirit? But in reality, are we really human? Or are we spirit that jumped into these bodies?

GEOFF: The other question is do we infuse our consciousness into the things around us – our homes, our cars, our robots.

STEVE: Absolutely. Absolutely.

GEOFF: Yeah. I mean, that's the interesting part.

STEVE: Yeah. Interesting is it, too.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: It's not right or wrong. It's just going to be a very fascinating question to see how we do that and how we work with that. So, can we see ourselves as creators?

GEOFF: Whew!

STEVE: Good question. We're going to have to decide that. It'll be decided in different levels. It'll be thrown out into society. Society will knock down some of it, grab other parts of it, and we as a collective of humans will decide what we're going to do with that. It's going to be very interesting.

JIM: In a way, it's like a mathematical expansion. You know, two and then there's four and then there's eight and there's 16 and we're just simply stepping into an evolution of a mathematical expansion. I keep meaning that to be simple. I said earlier you're going to see, in this whole process of AI and in this segmentation of two Earths in that example earlier, you're going to see a fragmentation of consciousness.

GEOFF: Yes.

JIM: Now, the fragmentation already exists. Everything exists in consciousness, we're just going to basically become aware of an aspect of consciousness and every thought you think begins to be a creation. So you have all these mathematical fragmentations of this aspect of consciousness that is not ... on one hand, it's very much in your control, but on another hand, as you evolve into it, you're going to be very sloppy and mishaps with creation figuring it out. There's no failure in there and there's no badness in there, if that was a word. It's just simply, just like you as a little child come in here and you try to walk, you fall down – you didn't fail. You get up and try it again and you try lots of things. You came here to have experience. You're now stepping into a level of consciousness that functions differently, that very rapidly provides for what you are thinking to manifest into some level of reality.

Most of us don't manage our thoughts very well, and that's, to a great extent, that linear-ness of, "Oh, I hope what happened to me there doesn't happen to me in my future" or "They said and therefore ...". The average person doesn't manage thoughts. As you get into this space where this evolution is going and these, as I said earlier, we're labeling layers of thought, each one functions differently, and you perform and play in all of those right now. You just aren't aware of being conscious in numbers of those layers of thought. But when you do, the apple appears when you hold out your hand intentionally.

GEOFF: It'll be interesting to watch how all this comes to be because we've been used to one species of humans. There's been times in history where there's been numerous species coexisting at the same time, maybe not aware of each other, but they were on the planet at the same time. But we're very used to just one. Now we start branching into four, potentially, and it'll be really interesting, because the ones who stay homo sapiens I think are – the reason they're going to not want to get involved in, like, nanotechnology or certainly not what we're doing is because they have the Abrahamic backgrounds, the old God. And their God is going to tell them, "No, this is all wrong to do stem cells or nanotechnology," and "If God had wanted you to be better or healthy, he would have made you healthy."

STEVE: He would have made you healthy!

GEOFF: Yeah, right. Or smarter or more money or any of that.

STEVE: Yeah, exactly.

GEOFF: And I don't know what percent of the world's population is based on the Abrahamic religions – the Christians, the Jews, the Muslims – but a lot, and that's a huge factor. And then there are the ones who don't have that pull of those beliefs. They're going to be the ones more likely to do nanotechnology, injections, "Eh, I need a new liver, because the old one is giving out" or "You know, I want to live a little bit longer" or "I just want to see what it's like." They're going to be more willing to try that and we're going to see some very interesting lines of separation. The nice thing is, for the most part, I don't think the rest of the world is going to see us. We just won't be on the radar.

STEVE: It's a vibrational thing. We'll be in a different vibrational level entirely.

GEOFF: Right, right.

STEVE: I agree.

JIM: Right. And part of that challenge is you will see them.

GEOFF: Exactly.

JIM: And so the key is do you fall back into third dimension every time you look at that or you ... look at the world right now, are you able to look at the politics of the world and not go there? Try it out.

GEOFF: You've got to laugh.

JIM: Well, you got to laugh, absolutely.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah. No, but you have to.

JIM: The point is, if you go there, you went there. That's the simple message. Can you observe and allow without putting your finger in that light socket of having judgment, opinion, et cetera? And once you begin to master that, the ability to navigate all of the theater begins to be on your terms versus on the terms of the noise out there or the 'Donald' of the day.

GEOFF: Yeah. Actually, I know we're becoming more enlightened. I heard somebody at the break say, "I love Donald Trump."

JIM: Really?!

GEOFF: Well, because of what he's doing. And they can stand back ...

JIM: That's stretching it pretty far.

GEOFF: ... and look at it and say, "That's not my president, that's not my issue, but I love what's going on. All that turmoil, disruption and everything."

JIM: I don't know anything about that. I'm allowing (laughter).

GEOFF: No, actually, that's a big leap to be able to say, "Hey, that's what the consciousness chose."

JIM: Exactly.

GEOFF: "It doesn't mean I have to get sucked into it," but I thought that was a beautiful comment.

STEVE: We're always feeding the ego too to try and figure out what people are thinking of us. And a friend of ours, Terry Cole-Whittaker wrote a book – you don't need to read the book, you can get everything from the title – "What You Think of Me Is None of My Business." It's perfect.

JIM: My business is about my business.

STEVE: Exactly.

LINDA: This is a little bit of a complicated question. It's about time.

QUESTION: So I find that time has basically disappeared where I start my day and then it's time to go to bed and I haven't done much from the gigantic "to do" list in my 3D reality. Is this living in the Now time? My poor human is having a hell of a time adjusting to this (laughter) as the months just slip by me. Also, the doing part of my human life seems to have been left by the wayside along with the mounds of dust in my house (more chuckles). Will I adjust to this sometime, as I allow more of my Master in?

STEVE: Your Master is laughing (some chuckles).

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah. Yeah, yeah. Yeah.

STEVE: That's the point. Do you measure yourself by what you got done today? Or do you measure yourself by what kind of experience you had on the planet today? Did you enjoy yourself? It doesn't make any difference whether you got anything done, really. That's the old linear time stuff.

GEOFF: We're going to be giving up things like goals, to do lists, purpose in life, all the rest of that. They just go out the door. And one of the nice things is that as we go into all this, you stop being a slave to energy, stop working for energy and let it work for you. It flips everything around and suddenly you have a lot more time. Suddenly, things just get done. You don't know how, and you don't even need to ask how. Suddenly, your house is a little bit cleaner and suddenly things are just getting done. It's amazing. But we're so used to this old pattern, we're hypnotized into it – you have to have lists, have goals, work hard – and it's taking a little bit of adjusting to get off of that and just let energy work for you.

JIM: See, this is very much the shift right here, "These are my habits, this is what I do, this is what I depend on, this is how I know my life." And as time is changing – and it is the one piece that is really driving almost everything we're talking about in a way – as time begins to collapse into present time, into a singular point of reference, and you start to realize that, "I can hold out my hand and the apple appears," the need to do the laundry and all of that begins to, in a way, disappear. You're starting to create a different reality of perception and creation than what you have been used to and built into a habit-forming belief system.

So, as you start to find – and I hear this all the time in Mastering Alchemy – "I'm getting bored." Well, okay, what are you getting bored of in that context? Well, like Geoff said, "I've lost my goals. I've lost my interest. I'm really not interested in my job and I don't like food anymore and I don't know what to do."

Well, okay. How's that working for you? "Oh, it's actually pretty good," they say (laughter).

Okay, so what would you like to replace it with? “Well, I’m bored.” Well, third-dimensional bored. But the shift is okay, here is this field of potential that as you hold your attention in present time and have an intention, that attention on the intention begins to manifest. That’s how it’s going to work, that’s how it is working, but “That’s new and different and I don’t believe it yet. I don’t have enough habit for it yet. I don’t have enough experience to trust it yet. It’s not my truth yet.” And so there’s all the rational mind arguing with why that sounds good, but. Anybody know that “but”?

GEOFF: Hm. Big “but.”

STEVE: And once you manifest the apple, you can certainly manifest a clean shirt.

JIM: Absolutely, and anything else you wish.

GEOFF: Yeah. And then things just start happening in your life. Instead of worrying about cleaning the house, all of sudden somebody shows up that wants to clean it for you. Then you’ve got to face that issue, “Am I worthy of having somebody clean my house?”

LINDA: Yes, I am! (much laughter)

JIM: And how much do you charge?

STEVE: I like that.

GEOFF: It’s an old issue that so many of us face. It’s like, “Oh, I can’t do that, because then they’re kind of my housekeeper, my servant.” It’s like, absolutely. That’s exactly what they want to do. We’ve all done that in our past, done service like that. Now let somebody do it for you so you can continue to be bored (more chuckles).

JIM: And pay them well, so they can do it.

GEOFF: And pay them well.

STEVE: Pay them well. They’ll enjoy it.

GEOFF: You don’t worry about money at that point and the logical mind doesn’t think, “Well, how do I make money and budget and all the rest of that?” That goes out the window. You just allow it and it’s there. It’s a little scary at first, but it’s just there, and it keeps flowing.

JIM: It works.

STEVE: And all the manifestation books have always said, “If you’re going to manifest money, you have to manifest a specific amount. You have to be very clear about what that amount is.”

LINDA: Ohhh.

STEVE: Sorry, but I can’t tell ...

GEOFF: Don’t tell that to Adamus!

STEVE: Yeah. And the Group says, “Why on earth would you limit Spirit like that?”

GEOFF: Yeah.

STEVE: Why would you do that? Are you so attached to your goals and patting yourself on the back that you did something, that you limit your own manifestations by putting a limit on it?

GEOFF: Yeah.

JIM: Money is fun when you get excited about keeping it in motion and it's got to stay in motion, and you just say, "Well, here, I'm going to do this," and it comes back to you in another way. Put it in motion. Pretty soon you're really kind of laughing at your experience.

STEVE: Mm hmm.

JIM: But most people can't get to that place of, "What if it doesn't work?" They get stuck in that and stop it.

GEOFF: Yeah. And pretty soon those terms, a lot of terms, we're going to find are just going out of vocabulary – pain, abundance – all the issue terms that we've had for a long time. They just disappear. And I know it's sometimes hard to imagine and people say, "Well, what am I supposed to do?" Take a deep breath and allow. I mean, you're allowing your Master, I Am, whatever you want to call it, light body. You're realizing the burden is not on the human anymore, and the human is just allowing this light into their life. It's amazing. It's too simple actually.

STEVE: It's almost too simple.

GEOFF: We want to work at it.

STEVE: We want to intellectualize it.

GEOFF: In a program.

STEVE: We want to measure it.

GEOFF: Yeah. Yeah.

JIM: And you will see money disappear as a reality. It's not about the money. It's about the motion and the enjoying.

GEOFF: Right.

JIM: Let somebody come and clean the house and you give them the tomatoes you love growing, and it will move. That's not going to happen next week, and I'm not sure I'm going to say it's going to happen in your lifetime, in a way. But I really mean it is going to happen in a near-term reality that I would speculate will be within 20 years.

GEOFF: The monetary system.

JIM: The monetary system is going away.

STEVE: Yeah, the Group predicted that we'd actually have a little bit of a crash next year.

JIM: I wasn't going to talk about that part (laughter).

GEOFF: We can do that next year.

STEVE: Well, and even if we do, what does that mean? Does that mean we stop what we're doing? No. We're going to still wake up in the morning. We're still going to find ways of making things work. We're still going to be here. We've still got work to do. We still have passions. It just means we measure things a little different. We lose the need to measure.

GEOFF: But also, we're outside of that, and it's not ours anymore.

STEVE: Yeah, exactly.

LINDA: It's been the longest bull market in history. The odds are it will crash.

GEOFF: Yeah, right, right (Linda chuckles). Yeah.

STEVE: All the signs are there.

GEOFF: But why worry about it? It's not our market. You know, I mean it's ...

JIM: Yeah, but that's not going to be the reason money is going to change. Go out about ten years and when all of a sudden realize the level of debt worldwide is just ... and everybody's going to say, "The emperor has no clothes on" and you will see a new monetary system. But after that one, the indication is that you'll begin to see a level of joy among people engaging with and doing what they love doing, that that monetary system will begin to disappear from the reality. There are two or three iterations to get there, but in the next ...

LINDA: Want to hint at one of those?

JIM: Yeah, the monetary collapse in its entirety is going to have to have a substitute, and the substitute will be created by a lot of those beings that are now Millennials, that have come here to make a difference, that we keep seeing them not knowing what they're doing theoretically. They know exactly what they're doing. And they will evolve into this level of consciousness in this period of time. But I'm going to say – it's not a prediction – but somewhere around 2030 you'll see a complete monetary rearrangement. Not just a crash, the entirety of the monetary system worldwide will change.

GEOFF: Funny thing is, it's already happened.

JIM: It's already happened.

GEOFF: Yeah.

STEVE: It's already moving. Yeah.

JIM: Yeah.

GEOFF: Yeah.

JIM: It's just the lie that is keeping it in motion, but it'll change.

LINDA: Okay, on a different note.

QUESTION: Will aliens be announced and live among human species?

JIM: Oh, no! Any different than now?

GEOFF: We are aliens.

STEVE: Very limited range of perception. How do we know they're not already here in different forms that we can't see? And what importance is it? That's probably one of the more important questions.

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah, yeah. Did that come from the Sedona Journal? (laughter)

LINDA: Okay.

GEOFF: That wasn't a real popular question (more chuckles). I agree with you, Steve, though – big deal.

STEVE: Yes.

GEOFF: It's not our issue and actually Adamus has said that the aliens really have a tough time. They don't necessarily really want to come here, because they get stuck into the whole thing of lifetime after lifetime, bad relationships, bad jobs and everything else. They don't want to stick around. So, no, they don't do a lot of ...

JIM: The other part of that is how valuable is that attention point to you?

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah. Yeah.

JIM: How long do you want to keep running that through your system? And what has it done for you so far? And so, there's a lot of those 'what you hold your attention on' may not be of any use to you at all, but you magnetically keep running it through the system. But just ask yourself, "Has this yielded anything for me so far? And how is it going to benefit or allow me to have some level of elevation in my awareness if it were to, in fact, happen to me right in front of my face?" It's a sideshow, to a great extent.

GEOFF: Yeah. A distraction.

JIM: They exist. It's a sideshow though.

GEOFF: Yep.

LINDA: I'm not sure you want me to go with these questions, because they seem to be taking much the same track.

QUESTION: I'm experiencing the shift more intense than ever. It's quite a bumpy ride. Lots of negative patterns emerging. I feel like I'm getting kicked out of the third dimension pretty hard. My question is do you have some tips to make this transition a little smoother? I think I'm on the right path, but sometimes I wonder how long this is going to take.

JIM: It'll be over next Thursday about 3:42 (laughter). No. Just enjoy it until then.

STEVE: Just enjoy it.

GEOFF: Thank you. That was my question (more chuckles).

JIM: Oh, you ... (more laughter)

STEVE: Let go.

GEOFF: Let go, yeah, yeah.

JIM: Let it go.

GEOFF: I think we all concur. And, you know, the other thing – let go – but also, this is an amazing experience! We're on the planet at the craziest time ever, most change ever. We're going through the biggest change ever. Your last lifetime in the physical body. You know, you could sit around complaining about it all day or just enjoy the hell out of it. I mean, what an experience we're going through. This is great.

Get your stories, get big stories so when you go to the Ascended Masters Club and you hang out with Adamus and the others, your stories are bigger than theirs (some chuckles).

JIM: There you go. There you go.

LINDA: Okay. So this is a question for Jim.

QUESTION: Can you speak to the critical mass of enlightened beings, Ascending Masters, whose influence really is starting to make a difference in spreading the light? I also sense that, as things are somehow smoothing out.

JIM: Yes (a few chuckles). Yes, that's happening. So, critical mass. I'm going to – the critical mass is going to continue to keep growing and growing. I mean, as all of us begin to be more conscious of being conscious, you start aligning in that sense of that internal guidance system of wellbeing. And it's in that internal guidance system that your light gets brighter and brighter. So, is that going to change everything next year or the following year? No. It's just beginning to be progressively the dawning of the day of the opportunity that we're all expecting to happen.

LINDA: Anybody else?

STEVE: No, he covered it.

LINDA: Okay.

QUESTION: So, will we be able to teleport?

GEOFF: I wouldn't worry about that right now. You know, it's a distraction.

STEVE: It's a physical aspect.

GEOFF: Yeah, and if the focus is on that, to be able to teleport or a lot of these other – aliens or any of the rest of that – we miss the point of what's happening on the planet right now. And you can actually teleport right now, but you want to do it in the old physical human way. Your teleportation, you can go to the other side of the planet, and I know you go to the other realms at night while you're sleeping. You do all the time. You just want to take your painful human body with you and we're going to be doing it in a different way with a different type of body. But also, I wouldn't suggest anybody focus on that, because you're going to end up trying too hard and struggling with it and then feeling like a failure. It'll come.

STEVE: Physics is actually getting very close to teleporting. They have teleported small particles. They have not been able to teleport a bunch of conglomerations of particles and have them come back together yet. But this is actually happening through people that work at CERN. So it is taking place, they're getting very close, they're very excited about it, and what the Group says is by the time they figure it out, we're not going to be interested (laughter).

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah. No, it's true.

STEVE: We're not going to care, because if we step out into these higher dimensional bodies, we don't need to teleport. We can be anywhere at any moment, and wait until you see what's coming.

GEOFF: You're going to be in many places all in the same moment.

STEVE: Well, can you hold two thoughts at the same time? I mean, if you really practice it, you can. We actually did a seminar on this – to be able to hold two thoughts at one time, to be able to bilocate your consciousness. And if you stop and think about it, you're here right now. You're focusing on us on the stage. Can you also, at the same time, take yourself home and put yourself on the couch? Yeah, you can. And with a little bit of practice, that is basically one of the things that'll actually start to lead to teleportation or what we are calling teleportation.

LINDA: Okay.

GEOFF: Or bi-awareness.

STEVE: Yeah.

GEOFF: Yep.

LINDA: This, I guess, goes to Geoff.

QUESTION: What does a daily agenda of Homo Christos look like? I'm totally bored otherwise (laughter).

GEOFF: I don't know yet. I can imagine a few things. But, you know, I think we're still going to have our regular human or our homo sapien aspect that gets up in the morning, has breakfast, goes through the routine. But I think simultaneously we're going to be in multiple locations, multiple awarenesses.

You know, it's really interesting – going back into the earlier discussion about senses – Adamus says that there are about 200,000 senses in all the realms, and humans deal with one – Focus. We're just so focused and he said, you know, you realize at any given point you're in about, I think he says, 12 different dream states, even right now, that are happening all around you. You're just so focused on this and your pain and your bad relationship and your bad job that we lose all of that. And I think what's happening is we start to open up and we become so much more sensual. I mean, we lived in this singular life, kind of a gray life, and then we get used to it and we think that, well, we think everything is the same. You start opening up into the sensuality and you realize, yeah, you can be aware of the different dream states that you're living in, you can be aware that you're at home sitting on your couch right now eating a chocolate sundae, and it gets really fun. But then the human is going to jump in and say, "Oh, I'm just going crazy." It's like, no, no. Crazy is being in single Focus. That's crazy. So, I don't know if I answered the question. Maybe these guys could.

JIM: No, that's good. There's an aspect to this too that I watch people define in either/or. "I'm going to go here or I'm going to go here."

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

JIM: So you're automatically in the duality of the third dimensional by that definition. But one of the things that I find with a lot of people in Mastering Alchemy is when you get into that singular point of awareness, you start to really get right here and quiet, you don't get small, you get big. And you begin to have an awareness of not "Going to my couch where I live." You already are there. You know what it feels like. You know it intimately, and right here you can be there and be here at the same time.

GEOFF: Mm hmm.

JIM: So, an aspect of your consciousness is beginning to be very multi-expansional without you ever moving from the single point of conscious awareness, that I Am. And in that point you recognize that the ability to start to ask a question, "How does that work?" and be there listening to the answer – I say this often and it's a potent piece of information – the answer lies where the question is asked. What we do is we move away to go find the answer. But if you get that quiet and you just simply ask the question and allow, it's amazing the amount of information that comes to you right where that question is asked.

STEVE: That's an interesting point. That's something the Group has repeated from the beginning of our teachings. They've said, "We're not here to give you answers. We're here to help you remember your questions."

JIM: Yeah, that's a good point. That's good.

LINDA: This is a little different question.

QUESTION: Will the artificial intelligence one day replace judges and decide if an individual should be freed, sent to prison for life or put to death?

LINDA: Probably.

STEVE: What if we didn't have those three choices? If we evolve to that point where we can do that ... here in the United States, we incarcerate 45 percent of the people in the world that are incarcerated. We've only got 12 percent of the population, and yet there are places here in the United States even that have done away with their prisons. They've started working with people to do things.

So, what about if we evolve to that state to where we don't need a judge, to where we have things that take place and "Here's the answer to that. Here's the program that you can go through. Here's what we're going to require you to go through as a healing program," rather than that type of situation or being put to death.

GEOFF: The other side to that, what if they put a probe into your brain or something and they can read the exact memory of everything you did, where you were, guilty, not guilty. That's the scary part of artificial intelligence.

STEVE: Yeah.

GEOFF: You know, because it will have that capacity.

JIM: They say within five years they'll have mapped the brain.

GEOFF: Yeah. Yep.

JIM: Within five years.

GEOFF: Yep.

JIM: And what you're pointing to is a real possibility. What else is possible about that implant that gets put in there that says you don't do those things anymore?

GEOFF: Right.

JIM: So, "I'm going to make you no longer a criminal. Here's an implant." Well, were you a criminal in the first place?

GEOFF: Right. And with mapping the brain, obviously then they're going to try to replicate that in the computers, and that's where we're going to see the line between, you know, that computer that used to sit on our desk and the new computers. You know, the lines are going to be really blurred, very blurred.

JIM: I think I read that in a book called 1984 (some chuckles).

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah. Yeah.

JIM: I think that was it.

STEVE: A lot of choices coming.

GEOFF: Speaking of books, Adamus has been talking for a while a book that he wrote back in his last lifetime called The Time of Machines, and it was all about the time that we're living in now. And he wrote it, he kind of said he projected into the future and wrote all about this amazing time of convergence with so many things happening. And he said we're right smack in the middle of his book. I mean, it's happening right now.

JIM: Yeah.

LINDA: We have about nine minutes to finish.

GEOFF: Oh, good.

LINDA: Would you like ...

GEOFF: I only need seven or eight (they chuckle).

LINDA: Would the three of you like to make some wrap up comments.

JIM: I think we've said all we ... Geoff would love to make a wrap up comment (more chuckles).

GEOFF: Well, it's actually not me. It's, you know, eh, eh (laughter).

STEVE: We know.

JIM: Do we have to? (more laughter)

STEVE: Can we just project it?

GEOFF: Yeah, I think we're going to start to become aware of how hypnotized we've been for ages by our ancestors, by society, by ourselves, by our past lives. An amazing hypnotic – and a lot of this started back in Atlantis – but we have these amazing hypnotic overlays around us. They're like clouds. They fog our vision.

They keep us from actually enjoying life. And they're not ours. They're not yours. We've allowed ourselves to be hypnotized.

The only way to get out of it – you can't fight your way out or bargain your way out – the only way out is to choose out. But if you choose out of this hypnotic fog that we've all been living under, life is going to change, and you will probably have drastic changes in relationships – and if you're not ready for that, don't do it – in your job, where you live, in your body, in your mind, in your thoughts, in your relationship with yourself. And it sounds really nice to let go of all those overlays, but what we tend to do is just let a little bit go here and a little bit go there. But those are quickly filled in with more hypnotic overlays. It's really ultimately about making a decision that these things are no longer yours.

What is yours, by the way? Tobias said it many years ago, “What you choose.” That's it. That's it. But as we emerge now, as you emerge into the – what did he call it – the Homo Christos, as you emerge into that, you've got to let go of those hypnotic overlays that you picked up along the way and come back to yourself. That's it.

STEVE: I'll add something to that real quick, because this one's easy. You're bringing it down to choice, I totally agree with that.

GEOFF: Mm hmm.

STEVE: That's what we're here to do is to make choice. And we choose our reality. We create it because we become that. We attract everything to us. We don't need to go anywhere. We don't need to create. We don't need to project out. It will come to us.

But here's a very simple thing that you might want to think about. Let's say that subconscious mind carries everything. Every thought that he's ever had, every thought that she's had, anybody is carried in this flow of subconscious mind, and it goes through your brain every second of every day. You do not have choice over the thoughts that enter your head, but you have perfect choice over the ones that stay there.

GEOFF: Yep.

STEVE: The ones that you resonate with, that you hold, that you try to become. That is the choice, and that's a choice that'll step us very quickly onto this path of stepping into these higher bioluminescence human Christo ...

GEOFF AND JIM: Homo Christos!

GEOFF: Yeah, yeah.

STEVE: And so forth, to be able to do that. So we have choice. Any time you're in pain, choose again. Dare to choose again. Real simple.

JIM: Yeah, I finish lots of my webinars with, “How do you choose?” because that's really what it comes down to. And you're watching a world right now that's really fabulously fantastic. It's a little noisy out there (some chuckles), but how do you choose?

Now, there is no truth. It's just simply how do you perceive and how do you choose that which you hold your intent on? But you're watching right now some really interesting things, because the word “truth” is really being shifted and it's very much a hypnotic process. You're watching people tell – some guy tell – lie after lie after lie and then that becomes the truth after a while. It's all a hypnotic process that is well documented in dictatorial governments forever and ever.

But we're watching this unfold in a way that is as you get into present time, you can't take your baggage with you, and the baggage is the hypnotic structuring of what mom, dad, teacher, minister said, what the religion has said all along what I have to believe. So, a lot of that structuring that we hang on to as truth really is generally not even your belief system. It's somebody else put it in your head and you went, "Okay, me too" and accepted it and have never revisited it.

But to all of you, to all of us, this is a different day. This is an enormous opportunity to choose in a way that your ability to create and bring forth what you want isn't some mythical consideration. It is really very much in your ability to handle. That apple is that far away from you having it manifested exactly the way you want it, but you don't believe you can.

GEOFF: Yep.

JIM: And it's in that, "I can't. Oh, you don't understand" or "I've never done it," "But ..." that's the piece that is very much engaged in the hypnotic sense that says, "This is all you are. Live with it." And those days are really going away very rapidly if you will allow them.

GEOFF: Well said.

JIM: I just made that up (some chuckles).

GEOFF: Well created.

JIM: Okay.

STEVE: Well channeled (they chuckle).

JIM: That's all I got.

LINDA: Any final words? Is that it?

GEOFF: That's it.

LINDA: So, I'd like to thank ... Jim (laughter).

JIM: Oh, I was going to be worried.

LINDA: And Steve and Geoff. Thank you for offering your professional, your amazing, wonderful insights to us. It's been a true pleasure. The live audience would like to thank you (audience applause), as well as all those that are listening.

Thank you to Jim and Steve and Geoff.

GEOFF: And thank you, dear Linda.

STEVE: Thank you, Linda. Awesome.

JIM: Thank you.

LINDA: Absolutely my pleasure beyond words. And thank you to our production staff here ...

JIM: Yes.

LINDA: ... doing all this incredible work to make this event happen (audience applause).

GEOFF: How about a shot of the production staff?

LINDA: Thank you all. Thank you to our staff (applause continues).

So, with that, I believe we can say thank you and goodbye. Thank you.
